CITY MILK SUPPLY

gation to Aldermen, Says proved and Recommends

Standard and Warning Against Contamination Is Uttered.A report on the sanitary survey of the St. Louis milk supply, conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, from March 8 to May 10 last, has been received by President Aloe of the Board of Aldermen from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and was made public today.The draft of an ordinance, recommended for the purpose of improving the quality of the milk supply, was included in the report. The ordinance is designed to correct the conditions shown in a general summary made by the Secretary of Agriculture, which reaches the following conclusions:1. The milk supply of St. Louis is in an extremely unsatisfactory condition.2. The entire milk supply should be immediately improved by the proper pasteurization of all except sterilized milk.3. The general quality of the raw milk to be pasteurized should be improved as fast and as far as is economically feasible. This may be accomplished by adequate, intelligent inspection and instruction.4. Present legislation and present inspection forces and equipment are inadequate to properly safeguard the milk supply.The St. Louis survey, conducted by the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture, followed an investigation conducted last winter by the Committee on Public Welfare of the Board of Aldermen. The committee, in its report Feb. 25, criticized the dairies and milk plants of the city, with a few exceptions, for "a tendency to indifference, slovenliness and disregard for imperative sanitary requirements."Wallace Writes on Point.
"I feel sure," Secretary Wallace said in his letter transmitting the report, "that an improvement in the milk supply will result in a benefit not only to the consumers but to the producers, in that greater confidence will be maintained in the milk supply and larger consumption will eventually follow.""It is believed that this survey was carefully and thoroughly done and this report is based on actual records and very complete data. This report has on file full data upon which this report is based and will be glad to supply additional data on any point of the investigation that is desired."The report begins with statements as to volume of the milk supply and temperature conditions during the survey. The supply, throughout the period of the inquiry, consisted of 11,835,200 gallons daily, of which 4,985,200 gallons, or 42 per cent, was pasteurized, and 6,850,000 gallons, or 58 per cent, was raw milk.
"Generally speaking," the report continues, "atmospheric temperature has a marked influence on the quality of the milk supply. At temperature above 50 degrees Fahrenheit bacteria in milk grow more rapidly as the temperature increases. There is, therefore, a seasonal variation in the effect of temperature on the milk supply. During the period of the survey the average mean temperature for March was 54 degrees Fahrenheit, and for April 58 degrees Fahrenheit. It can be seen, therefore, that the average temperature was neither low nor high and it is evident that its influence was slight, compared with the high temperature of the summer months."

Steps Needed to Safeguard Milk to Be Pasteurized(From report of Dairy Division, U.
S. Department of Agriculture.)
AFTER safeguarding the milk supply of St. Louis by proper pasteurization, the quality of the milk to be pasteurized should be improved, and for this purpose the following steps are suggested:1. The methods of producing and handling milk on the farm should be improved. Rigid inspection should be maintained by the city.2. Sediment tests should be made of farmers' milk as soon as received. This test has considerable educational value, as sediment is something a farmer can see and readily understand.3. Ice for cooling milk might be furnished at cost to producers by owners of receiving stations. In order to encourage better cooling.4. No shipping or cooling stations should be allowed to send milk or cream to St. Louis unless such station and its methods of handling milk have been approved by the health officer of St. Louis.5. All milk received at shipping and cooling stations should immediately be cooled to 50 degrees F. or below.

6. Milk should be protected from all influences which may cause a rise in temperature above 50 degrees F. from the time it is cooled at the shipping station until it is pasteurized at the city plant.7. Steps should be taken to eliminate if possible the necessity of holding milk from one day to the next at the shipping stations.8. All shipping stations should be equipped with washing and steaming facilities and all apparatus with which milk comes in contact within the stations should be sterilized.9. The farmers' cans could be washed, sterilized and properly dried either by the station employees or by the farmer.10. Cans used for shipping milk from the country stations to the city should be washed, sterilized and dried at the city plants.

It is desirable that they again be rinsed and sterilized at the country stations before they are filled with milk.11. Efforts should be made to secure better switching and unloading facilities at Union Station, St. Louis, in order to facilitate prompt removal of milk upon its arrival.12. City dealers should remove all of their milk from the car
as soon as possible.FOSSIL UNCOVERED

Reported Found on Farm Near Racine, Mo.JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 18.—The petrified remains of what is believed to be a prehistoric reptile or deep sea monster of gigantic proportions has been uncovered on a farm near Racine, Mo., 15 miles south of here, it became known last night.The general contour of the fossil is in a good state of preservation and resembles a lizard. The head measures 12 feet in length and the petrified body is 24 feet long, from head to tail, the tail measuring 12 feet.While the outline of the monster is regular, parts have been broken and earth has filtered into the openings. All of the separated parts fit together, and the fossil is in a good condition.The remains are white on the outside, resembling limestone, but on the inside they are the color of flint and extremely hard. A high wire fence has been erected around the spot to preserve the object, and a communication has been sent to the Smithsonian Institution asking that an investigation be made.MOTHER, STRICKEN AT FUNERAL

The body of Corporal McCarthy, who was killed in action with the Eighteenth Infantry in June, 1918, reached St. Louis Saturday, and while the funeral service was being read in the Post chapel at Jefferson Barracks, Mrs. McCarthy fainted.
She was removed to the Post hospital and died that night, presumably from shock.

food relief for Russia has been reached at Riga, Secretary Hoover announced today.Negotiations between Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American Relief Administration, and M. Litvinoff, the soviet repre-be a day or two before the formal document is drawn.Preparations are being made by the New York offices of the Relief Administration to start food ships to Danzig with famine supplies into Russia.The original administration con-ground that owing to general condipropitious for such display.This action eliminates at least 5,000 to 8,000 men who usually represent the building trades in Labor day parades. There are 21 trades affiliated with the Building Trades Council, with an aggregate membership of 150,000.The Bricklayers' Union, which has

Meeting Follows Declara-

British Peace Offers.DUBLIN DOES NOT

Entering Commonwealth
as Free State.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Aug. 18.—The peace negotiations between the British Government and the Irish Republican leaders were not mentioned during this morning's secret session of the Dail Eireann, or Irish Republican Parliament, it was announced officially this afternoon.The morning session was spent in discussing the reports of the various Ministers of the Republican Cabinet
—the first time the Parliament has been able to do this without fear of police interference. The Dail resumed its session at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but, just before the session, Arthur Griffith told the Associated Press that there was no possibility of the subject of the peace negotiations being reached before Saturday.It is the general belief that the Dail Eireann will not break off the negotiations with Great Britain, and it is thought that some action may be taken to approach Ulster in an effort to secure his co-operation in carrying on the conversations in London.De Valera's Statement.
De Valera stated yesterday that he was ready to get in touch with the Government of Northern Ireland and that the Irish Republicans would "make sacrifices to Ulster that they would never think of making to England."The nature of the "sacrifices" to Ulster that De Valera had in mind were not disclosed yesterday, but it is believed today that he will reveal to the members of the Parliament the steps he would advocate in bringing Ulster in accord with the Shin Fein.Should such an entente be reached, it was indicated yesterday, new proposals to Great Britain might be made, and there are observers who express belief that the offer would take the form of a proposition to enter the commonwealth of British dominions as an independent state.An agreement granting the Prime Minister's stipulations relative to national control of the terms of Premier Lloyd George to a referendum, said and air bases on the island might be complementary to such an offer, in the opinion of men who have followed closely the work of the Parliament.The possibility of calling a plebiscite by which the people of Southern Ireland might give their leaders a mandate governing their future activities in the negotiations, remains today as one of the solutions of the situation.Views of the Situation.
Significance is thought to attach to the words of De Valera that the Republicans are ready to make to North Ireland "sacrifices we never would think of making to England."Another way out of the deadlock which has arisen over the peace negotiations, aside from the possibility of a referendum, is the suggestion of a referendum on the part of Lloyd George to a referendum, is said to have been suggested to members of the Dail Eireann. In effect this suggestion is declared to have been that the Dail Eireann, which is considered the governing body of the Irish Republic, should go to Great Britain, saying:"We, as a republic, are desirous of becoming a member of the British Commonwealth. We are willing to grant you the concessions which you have demanded in his letter, such as naval and air bases."This, it is said, in high quarters, would involve Ulster coming into a single dominion with South Ireland.
High authorities tonight expressed the view that they did not believe that the Dail Eireann would do this time, but that they were convinced he would do so when a new Irish Parliament was elected made up of men the people of Ulster felt they could not legislate with respect to their property.De Valera is considered to have intimated some such scheme in his speech yesterday when he said:
"An association that would be consistent with our right to see that we were to be the judges of what are our own interests and that we are not compelled to leave judgement of what are our own interests or not to them—a combination of that sort would, I believe, commend itself to a majority of my colleagues."But it should really be a combination that is in accord with the description the British themselves gave of this offered association. Speaking of dominion, they describe it in terms of a free state.Leap From Airplane Fatal.

BUILDING TRADES
VOTE TO REJECT EMPLOYERS' OFFERProposed Blanket Agreement, Designed to Settle Disputes by Arbitration, Overwhelmingly Defeated.DECISION REACHED
BY A REFERENDUMChief Objection Said to Be Clause Permitting Employment of Nonunion Men Under Certain Conditions.The Building Trades Council at a regular meeting last night voted by an overwhelming majority to reject in its present form the blanket agreement proposed by master builders in the Building Industries Association. The proposed agreement was to supersede all individual contracts between unions and employers in the building industries with a view to preventing strikes and lockouts and adjusting wages and all disputes by arbitration.The vote to reject the proposed agreement in its present form was taken in a referendum submitted to the 21 trades in the council, with an aggregate membership of 12,000 men. It was submitted to them last night, and the result of the vote was announced and ratified last night by the delegates at the council.A rider attached to the blanket agreement by the master builders, providing that employers could employ any men they chose, regardless of union affiliation, in the event the unions could not supply sufficient men within a reasonable time, was the chief objection raised to the agreement, said Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the council, today. Cassidy declared that the master builders, in the final draft of the proposed agreement, omitted any reference to union jurisdiction of non-union men in such instances, as previously had been agreed to by the council, and at the same time ob-

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Formal notice that it cannot recognize jurisdiction of the United States over the high seas beyond the three-mile limit fixed by the international law for many years has been served by the British Government in connection with the seizure 12 miles off Long Island coast of the British been laden with liquor.It is expected, however, that the British authorities will await the outcome of court proceedings and final establishment of the vessel's is taken.It has been deemed necessary, however, to give notice in advance that Great Britain cannot acquiesce in extension of American jurisdiction

Peres, before its entrance into Forest Park, and making it a clean and healthful stream, were presented today to Mayor Kiel and members of the Board of Public Service by H.
Jerome Hirst, president of a Philadelphia corporation.After an inspection of the Des Peres in its course through the park, Hirst declared that a purifying plant could be provided for $50,000, including the cost of an ornamental house, at the point where the stream enters the park. The process of purifying the water, he said, would be one of electrolysis, direct oxidation and sedimentation, sterilizing the water and making it fit even for drinking.He said the system had been installed successfully at Allentown and Philadelphia, Pa., and that plans were being considered for its use in Chicago. Mayor Kiel said that if the practicability of the plan could be demonstrated, he would recommend that the work be undertaken.He said previous plans for dealing with River des Peres had always been expressed in terms of millions of dollars. The river has been unusually offensive this summer, he

WERREMEYER REFUSES TO SEND MAN TO JAILJustice Ignores Recommendation of County Prosecutor in Liquor Case.James Gleish, 28 years old, who was arrested yesterday in a raid on a farm at Shrewsbury, St. Louis County, where 39,000 gallons of corn mash was found in two distillers, a henhouse and a barn, was fined $200 by Justice Werremeyer at Clayton today after Prosecuting Attorney Mueller and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Rush had urged a jail sentence of six months.Mueller testified that he gave the man a chance to earn immunity by telling who employed him, but he pretended not to know, but said somebody would pay his fine.Rush, in asking for a jail sentence, said it was evident that there was a ring that paid fines and urged Werremeyer to give him a jail sentence and see if the ring could get him out of jail.Werremeyer said it was unfortunate that the fellow had no lawyer, and he seemed to be ignorant, and he was probably just a fool. He asked Gleish how long he had been in this country. Gleish said seven years.Werremeyer fined him $200. Mueller protested, but Werremeyer stuck to it.The Prosecuting Attorney appeared later to see who would pay the fine.
Sam Ambro, who has been around the Courthouse often, was there.
Constable Schoenbeck asked him if he received the fine. He said he laid it together. He said he was making it out in the name of Sam Gorozzi. Ambro said he was only trying to help Gleish out of trouble.
He said he was a "knewing" participated in the conspiracy," finds "grave dereliction of duty on the part of Hunt."As a basis for its criticism of Col.
Cresson, the majority report says that "as ugly as are the many phases of the whole matter, none is more defensible than the conduct of Col.
Cresson, in his pretense of presentation of Col. Hunt tried by court-martial in connection with the Bergdoll scandal. No reference to Cresson is made by the minority."Case of Bruce H. Campbell.
Major-General Peter C. Harris, Adjutant-General of the army, who authorized Hunt to send Bergdoll under guard, to the Maryland penitentiary to escape, was said to be necessary to the end that Campbell may be exonerated, if not found guilty.Dismissal from the Department of Justice of Earl B. Wood, in charge of correspondence in the Bergdoll case, for failure to transmit to the War Department warning from a special agent that the prisoner was planning to escape, is recommended by the majority.

Attorney for Divorced Wife Predicts Real Slayer of Broker Will Be in Jail by Sunday.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 18.—Possible arrest in connection with the Kennedy case of a man on a Los Angeles-Salt Lake route train, which left here at 8 o'clock last night, is forecast in a story which the Los Angeles Times is printing this morning.

The Times says the man is believed to have been one of two for whom automobile club officials are searching in connection with the theft of an automobile on Aug. 5, the night of the slaying of J. B. Kennedy, a broker, and its recovery near the scene of the shooting two days later.

The activity of the defense was further manifested late yesterday, it was learned, when an expected witness for Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, indicted jointly with Arthur C. Burch in connection with the murder, arrived here late in the day from Honolulu, in answer to a cablegram from Mrs. Obenchain. The woman is Mrs. Frank Danmond, Mrs. Obenchain's divorced husband of 10 years, with her up to a few days before the slaying of the broker. It is indicated by counsel that she may throw light on the prisoner's supposed love affair with Kennedy.

Investigators for the prosecution of Mrs. Obenchain and Burch, were viewing with interest this morning the published statement of Ralph R. Obenchain, divorced husband of the young woman defendant and also her acting counsel, that he had uncovered evidence that would probably lead to the arrest of a man within five days and result in the freeing of both prisoners.

Continuing investigation.

While they were interested in the statement, they declined to comment, but indicated they were continuing with their work, which, it is understood, revolves around the past relations of the two principals in the case and their connection with the dead man, and the past relations of Kennedy and Mrs. Obenchain.

In his declaration yesterday that the person who killed Kennedy would be in jail within five days, Obenchain said:

"The investigation we have been conducting has produced evidence showing a new theory for the killing of Mr. Kennedy, he said, and the individual or individuals responsible for the murder or who are directly implicated in it will be arrested. I believe that by Sunday the situation will be cleared up and the innocence of the present suspects established."

ALLEGED HANDBOOK RAIDED

Former Convict One of Four Men Arrested in Holland Building.

The police, gambling squad went to Room 902 in the Holland Building, Seventh street, between Pine and Olive streets, at 1 p. m. today on information that a handbook was being operated there. The door bore a sign, "Harris Collecting Agency." The door was locked, and, following directions given in the "tip," Detective Sergeant Roach knocked three times on the door and pressed the palm of his hand against the glass panel. He was admitted by a man whom he recognized as John (Heavy) Connors of 1412 O'Fallon street, a former convict.

Three other men were in the room and there were several dice on a table. One of the men was Hugh Sweeney of 3588 Palm street, whose brother, John Sweeney, a former recording clerk in the Circuit Attorney's office, was killed by gangsters at Sixth and Chestnut streets last April. The two other men said they were James Delaney of 4021 De Touhy street and John Thompson of 2114 Olive street, salesmen. All were taken to police headquarters.

City Milk "Extremely Unsatisfactory" Federal Experts Find in Survey; New Legislation Is Recommended

teurized milk delivered and sold at retail, the report says, 100,000 bacteria were collected from wagons on delivery routes and represented the pasteurized milk as the consumer received it.

"It is felt that 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter is a reasonable maximum number which is allowable for satisfactory pasteurized milk and efforts should be made to approach such a standard in St. Louis."

"Keeping this limit in mind, it should be observed that 19 per cent of the samples had a count of 100,000 bacteria or more per cubic centimeter. In other words, 19 per cent of the pasteurized milk, as judged by bacteria counts, should be considered satisfactory. This left 81 per cent of the samples which were unsatisfactory, as 43 per cent showed counts from 100,000 to 500,000 per c. c. and 39 per cent with over 500,000, the latter being distinctly bad."

"Considering the high counts of bottled milk for retail trade the question may arise as to whether they were due to growth of bacteria in the bottle after pasteurization, or to other underlying causes. From the temperature taken of milk in bottles on wagons, it is evident that the high counts could not be entirely due to temperature during delivery. It was found that 67.3 per cent were 50 degrees F. or below, which is very satisfactory. In fact, 82.6 per cent were below 55 degrees F., so that the temperature factor could not explain the high counts of pasteurized milk. These were due largely to other causes as will be shown later."

"Samples of bottled pasteurized milk from stores showed that 46.4 per cent had satisfactory counts of 100,000 bacteria per c. c. or less, while 53.6 per cent were higher and were not satisfactory. Here again the temperature could not be held responsible for the high counts, as 71.8 per cent were below 55 degrees F."

"It will be observed that 46.4 per cent of the samples of bottled pasteurized milk obtained from stores contained less than 100,000 bacteria per c. c., as compared with 19 per cent of the samples of pasteurized milk from wagons. This may be explained by the fact that the bulk of store trade is supplied by those milk companies who were pasteurizing more efficiently than the average."

"To summarize the condition of the pasteurized milk in St. Louis, as indicated by bacteriological analysis, it may be said that only a small percentage of the supply was satisfactory. This is an important fact because 92.5 per cent of the milk supply consisted of pasteurized milk."

"As has been shown, the high counts were not due to high delivery temperature, and therefore must have been the result of other causes. It will be shown that these causes were (1) inefficient pasteurization, (2) poor quality of the raw milk which was pasteurized, and (3) contamination after pasteurization."

Scoring of the Plants.

"An idea of the general condition of 31 pasteurizing milk plants is shown by the following scores:

Score.	Number of Plants.
80-95	1
70-80	3
60-70	9
50-60	13
40-50	5

"A score of 100 is perfect."

"The general average of the plants was low, and there also were defects in the process of pasteurization, as will be shown."

"The St. Louis city ordinances require a pasteurizing temperature of 145 degrees F. maintained for 30 minutes. This temperature and holding period is the minimum which can be employed to cause the destruction of disease-producing organisms. A pasteurizing process where milk is held after heating for a period of about 30 minutes is known as the holding process. Since in commercial practice it is difficult to maintain a uniform temperature, it is not uncommon for the temperature to fall below 140 degrees F. For this reason, and in order to insure a reasonable margin of safety, a temperature of 145 degrees F. maintained 30 minutes should be required. The additional 5 degrees F. not only supplies this margin of safety but also causes a marked increase in the efficiency of heat for reducing the total count of bacteria and provides a safer product."

"The pasteurizing processes in the plants using the holding system were examined 83 times. In 9.4 per cent of the examinations the holding temperature was found to be 145 degrees F. or above. The proper temperature is 145 degrees F. maintained for 30 minutes. Furthermore, one of the most serious defects in the pasteurizing processes is shown by the fact that in 9.4 per cent of the examinations it was found that the temperature was below 140 degrees F. In this connection it may be said that there is no assurance that the temperature below 140 degrees F. will destroy disease-producing organisms. In 43.5 per cent of the examinations, the temperature ranged from 140 to 142 degrees F. and in 27.4 per cent of the examinations it was 143 degrees F. or above. The temperatures in this range are not considered entirely satisfactory for the destruction of pathogenic bacteria. The examinations in 27.4 per cent of the examinations ranged from 142 to 144 degrees F., but even these are too

Rules Recommended for Pasteurization of Milk

(From Report of the Dairy Division, Department of Agriculture.)

THE milk supply of St. Louis can be greatly improved by proper pasteurization. While some of the pasteurized milk was of good quality, the great majority needed immediate improvement. For this purpose the following rules and regulations for the proper pasteurization and for the sale of pasteurized milk are offered:

1. That pasteurization of milk shall be performed by a process whereby every portion of the milk is raised to a temperature of 145 degrees F. and retained at that temperature for a period of 30 minutes and immediately thereafter cooled to a temperature of 50 degrees F. or below and held at this temperature until delivered to the consumer.

2. That no equipment for pasteurizing milk shall be used unless it is approved by the health officer of St. Louis.

3. That each pasteurizing apparatus shall be equipped with a time and temperature recording apparatus approved by the health officer. The records shall be filed at the pasteurizing plant and mailed to the health officer each week.

4. That all pasteurized milk shall be plainly marked on each bottle cap or container in which such milk is delivered to consumers with a label bearing the inscription "Pasteurized Milk" together with the day of the week on which said milk has been pasteurized and the name of the pasteurizing plant.

5. That milk to be pasteurized shall contain not more than 2,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter at the time of pasteurization and not more than 100,000 nonpathogenic bacteria per cubic centimeter in the samples taken from containers being delivered to consumers. These counts are to be determined with the standard agar as described in the "Standard Method for the Analysis of Milk" prepared by the American Public Health Association. Furthermore, the im-

low to give the proper bacterial reduction. At one plant the flash process was used. This practice, which consists of heating milk for a short period of from 30 seconds to one minute, is not considered safe and should not be used.

Milk Held 30 Minutes.

"During the 83 examinations, at plants where the holding system was in use, it was found that in 93.9 per cent of the cases, the milk was held at least 30 minutes. Milk should always be held at 145 degrees F. for 30 minutes, and at 145 degrees F. if satisfactory results are to be obtained."

"After proper pasteurization, it is essential that the milk be cooled to 50 degrees F. or below. During the examinations at the plants it was found that 52.4 per cent of the pasteurized samples were cooled sufficiently. Most of the plants lacked satisfactory means for controlling the temperature of pasteurization. Of 31 plants three used automatic controls, the remainder relied upon hand valves to regulate the temperature."

"At seven plants there were no temperature recorders, while recorders were present at four plants, but were not in use. Automatic temperature controllers and recorders should be used in every plant."

"Automatic fillers and cappers were found at 21 plants and hand fillers and cappers at the other 10 plants. In 23 plants caps in sealed tubes were used. It is desirable that such caps be used rather than loose caps which come in contact with the operators hands and which therefore become infected with pathogenic organisms."

"Ten plants were equipped to wash and sterilize bottles mechanically, the remainder relying upon hand washing. The time of subsequent steaming being therefore governed by the will of the operator. This method does not give conforming good results."

"An examination of the bottles at the plants showed that 24 per cent were so contaminated as to cause an increase of 1000 bacteria to each cubic centimeter of milk. Considerable danger exists in such contamination. It is not so much the number of bacteria added as it is the danger of infecting pasteurized milk with pathogenic organisms which may have been introduced by contaminated water, flies, etc. When milk has been properly pasteurized, the possibility of subsequent infection must be prevented by placing the milk in thoroughly sterilized bottles."

Listing of the Samples.

"The bacteriological results obtained from 86 samples of bottled pasteurized milk taken at pasteurizing plants showed that 67.4 per cent were below 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, and 32.6 per cent were over. In other words 22.6 per cent were not satisfactory from a bacteriological standpoint. It will be noted that the results showed that 67.4 per cent of the pasteurized samples taken at the plants were below 100,000 bacteria per c. c., while as previously shown 19 per cent of the samples of pasteurized milk delivered to the consumer were below this figure. In this connection, it will be remembered that the high counts could not be entirely laid to the temperature of the milk."

The report then contains recommendations as to rules and regulations for the pasteurizing of milk, which are given elsewhere.

"Strict observance of the rules" is stated, "will add a large element

UNION AND NONUNION MEN IN CREW OF ALASKA HELD APART

No Officers on Deck After Craft Struck Reef, According to Testimony Against Executives.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—

Union and nonunion members of the crew of the steamer Alaska, wrecked off Blunt's Reef near Eureka on Aug. 6, held aloof from each other continuously, and no officers could be found on the boat deck immediately after the craft struck, according to testimony yesterday at a trial by Federal inspectors of executives of the ship. They are charged with negligence and unskillful seamanship in connection with the wreck.

country stations. So should all equipment with which milk comes in contact. Milk after being received at the country stations was placed in other cans to be sent to the city. At 24 of 29 stations visited the cans were used as received from the city plants and four rinsed them prior to filling with milk. Therefore 28 of the stations depended upon the city plants to wash and sterilize the cans.

"It was found that at only five of the city plants were the cans sterilized and dried properly and only six plants were equipped with machine rinsers and steamers. The rest of the plants used a sink and steam jet. Bacteriological examinations at 21 country stations of 105 cans which had been sent from the city plants and in which raw milk was to be sent to the city were contaminated to such an extent as to give the milk within the city limits an increase in bacteria of over 1000 per cubic centimeter of milk. Contamination to such an extent is unnecessary."

Recommendations are then made for improving the quality of the milk to be pasteurized. This it is declared is a problem which will require time, and the extent of the improvement is limited by economic conditions. These recommendations are given elsewhere.

The raw milk, which is 7.5 per cent of the supply to consumers, is then discussed. Seventy-one dairies were found to be producing raw milk within the city limits, and most of them made a low score in the tests of quality. A report, largely unfavorable, is made on the methods of production and handling in these establishments.

A possibility of epidemics, resulting from raw supply from city dairies, is pointed out, in the following paragraphs:

"Tuberculin testing of cattle in the herds of the city dairies was begun in January, 1921. In some herds as high as 40 per cent of the cattle were condemned. All animals in the producing herds should be tested, and, and retesting should occur periodically in order to keep the herds free from disease."

"The dangers of the transmission of tuberculosis through milk, however, are not the only dangers from raw milk not produced under exacting conditions. Many epidemics of typhoid fever and septic sore throat have been caused by the consumption of infected raw milk."

The infections may occur through human carriers of bacteria causing these diseases and the detection of such carriers is difficult, if not impossible, particularly when a large number of dairies have to be examined. Infection may also occur in other ways, such as through infected milk bottles, flies, contaminated water supplies, etc."

By a study of the conditions of production of raw milk at the city dairies, it seems evident that an epidemic might occur at any time from

CONVICTS IN ROAD CAMP TAKE AN AUTOMOBILE RIDE

Jefferson City Penitentiary Authorities Tell of Absence of Two Men Last Sunday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 18.—

Two convicts who escaped from the Millersburg road camp in the north part of Callaway County Sunday returned Sunday night, penitentiary authorities said today.

These men, Sam Weaver, serving seven years' sentence given to him in St. Louis last November for robbery, and Joseph Crosswhite, sent up from Randolph County last October for two years, said that Crosswhite's mother, who had come to visit him, took them for a ride in her automobile.

They went further than they thought, the car became mired in a mud hole, requiring several hours for extrication, after which they had to walk back to camp. The Millersburg camp, the only State prison road camp now out, will be brought in today or tomorrow, the road for which it was established having been completed.

tion of improper motive on his part," adding it was "apparent his mind was readily overcome by the strong statement of Ansell" that he would stand responsible for safe return of the prisoner. The minority criticizes Gen. Harris for suggesting to hunt instead of ordering that a commissioned officer accompany the expedition.

The majority reports that the escape was "the direct result of the proposition submitted by Ansell to Gen. Harris," and "even if Ansell did not conceive the plan, he presented it and pursued it to its accomplishment."

Taking up alleged connection with the Bergdoll case of former Judge John W. Westcott, one-time Attorney General of New Jersey, the majority holds it unimportant whether he actually had legally represented Bergdoll. The report declares "it was clear" that Ansell undertook to use Judge Westcott's name for the purpose of bringing to bear political influence "upon anybody in the administration who might be needed to make sure of the gold hunt release, which at last spelled Bergdoll's escape."

The majority report commends the seizure of the Bergdoll property by Allen Property Custodian Miller, and urges that he make every effort to produce $105,000 in gold obtained by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll from the Treasury Department, and alleged to have been buried on her farm, near Philadelphia. This was put in at the instance of Representative Lühring, who declared the withdrawal of the gold was the foundation stone of the whole conspiracy.

Finds No Trace of Bribe.

The minority holds that, while "unquestionably a conspiracy existed to effect the escape of Bergdoll," it did not find that any officer "received any bribe or was approached with a view to bribery," but that the conspiracy was participated in by Grever Bergdoll, the late D. Clarence Giboney, a Philadelphia lawyer; James E. Romig, formerly a Philadelphia Magistrate and friend of the Bergdoll family; Ike Stecher, the Bergdoll chauffeur, "and possibly Mrs. Bergdoll."

On this point the majority declared that Giboney and the Bergdoll group conspired to effect the slacker's release, "but it was absolutely necessary to have the active assistance of Ansell and Bailey (Edward S. Bailey, his law partner), and Col. Hulse for without the aid of these latter, Bergdoll could not have left Governor's Island."

"From the moment Bergdoll left Governor's Island and the conditions surrounding him," says the minority report, "became apparent, he saw he could depart when ready and without violence. That such a condition existed is, of course, a scandal. Less than ordinary precautions to prevent escape were used."

"It seems," says the majority, "that every happening—whether of act or omission—resulted in Bergdoll's benefit and not one to his real detriment."

"Col. Hulse," within the next two months after he participated criminally in the escape," says the majority, was promoted and retired.

"An Outraged Nation." "An outraged nation," it adds, "has the right to demand that Col. Hunt's annuity be discontinued."

"Anybody who has been and heard all of those associated, directly or indirectly, with the plan and management of the escape," says the majority report, "not only must recognize Ansell as the master mind, but also as his dominating and controlling spirit."

The minority declares that the escape was "seriously to Ansell's financial disadvantage," in preventing him from obtaining a larger fee for appealing a court martial sentence and adding "that Ansell was nothing to carry out his quarry that Bergdoll should not get away undoubtedly contributed to the escape."

at any rate which amount to a fair and friendly co-operation. Free and friendly co-operation is one thing and forced co-operation another."

The Dail Eireann is composed largely of young men, their average age being about 25 years. There are not a half dozen gray heads in the parliament.

Judging from the newspaper reflections of public opinion, the people of Dublin seem to have more confidence in the majority than in the minority. The war will not be reversed. For instance, the Irish Independent, which is closest to the Sinn Fein, says this morning:

"We rejoice to find in Mr. de Valera's statement a suggestion that the negotiations are likely to be terminated."

The Irish Times, referring to De Valera's speech of yesterday, says it suggested a deadlock, but adds that if this is true the time has come for the question to the people, and if it is possible to make any advance in the negotiations such advance should be made at once.

Freeman's Journal. In an editorial dealing with the Irish situation, says:

"If Gen. Smuts has been correctly interpreted as to Mr. Lloyd George's promises and wishes, a plain statement to this effect would, in our opinion, go a long way to smooth the path of peace."

LICENSE TAX ON VENDERS OF SOFT DRINKS ELIMINATED

Ways and Means Committee Also Agrees on Exemption From Income Levy of Pensions.

DEMOCRATS MAKE CHARGE OF GAG RULE

Oldfield of Arkansas, Democrat, Charges Corporation Tax Change Will Benefit Big Companies.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Elimination from the Republican tax bill of the section proposing a license tax of $10 a year on vendors of soft drinks was agreed upon today by majority members of the Ways and Means Committee while general debate on the measure was continuing in the House. Another amendment adopted would exempt from income tax all sums received as pensions or allowances from the Government by veterans of all wars or their dependents.

Democratic leaders said today that under the Republican rule no opportunity would be given to propose changes in the bill. They were prepared, however, to offer a motion to recommit the measure with instructions to the Ways and Means Committee to eliminate the proposal for repeal of the income tax rates in excess of 32 per cent. It was said they had been promised some support for such a motion from the Republican side.

Democrat Refers to Jokers.
Representative Oldfield, Arkansas, Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, opened the debate in the House, dealing largely with what he termed "jokers in the measure." He charged that the proposal to tax gains from the sale of capital assets at only 15 per cent in case an individual taxpayer's net income and capital asset gain aggregated more than $10,000 was an interest of speculators in real estate and other property.

The Arkansas member had set up before the Speaker's desk two tables designed to show how the repeal of the excess profits tax and the substitution of a 2 1/2 per cent increase in the corporate income tax would benefit corporations making more than 10 per cent on their investment and the decrease that would result in the taxes of men of large incomes from repeal of the surtaxes.

Debate Opened by Fordney.
Fordney opened the debate yesterday. Most of his speech of an hour, as he said in closing, was "a little about the bill and a whole lot about the Democratic party."

Referring to what he described as extravagances under the last administration, Fordney charged that President Wilson had taken over the railroads "for political purposes only" and had placed in charge of them "his son-in-law, McAdoo, whom he was grooming for the presidency."

Asked from the Democratic side why he had voted for the bill authorizing Federal control of the carriers, the speaker said: "I voted to put the President in a hole, and we did it."

Later Fordney said he had made his statement about taking over the railroads jokingly, but his declaration was greeted with jeers from the Democrats.

Reference to Trip to Paris.
The committee chairman went into details about shipping Board operations and war purchases, as well as operations of the railroads and the telephone lines, and declared that now the Republican administration had "to go to the country and ask for money to pay for these extravagances." He then gave some figures about the number of persons President Wilson carried with him to Paris and the money spent while there, adding: "The adder wants his pay now; we danced then."

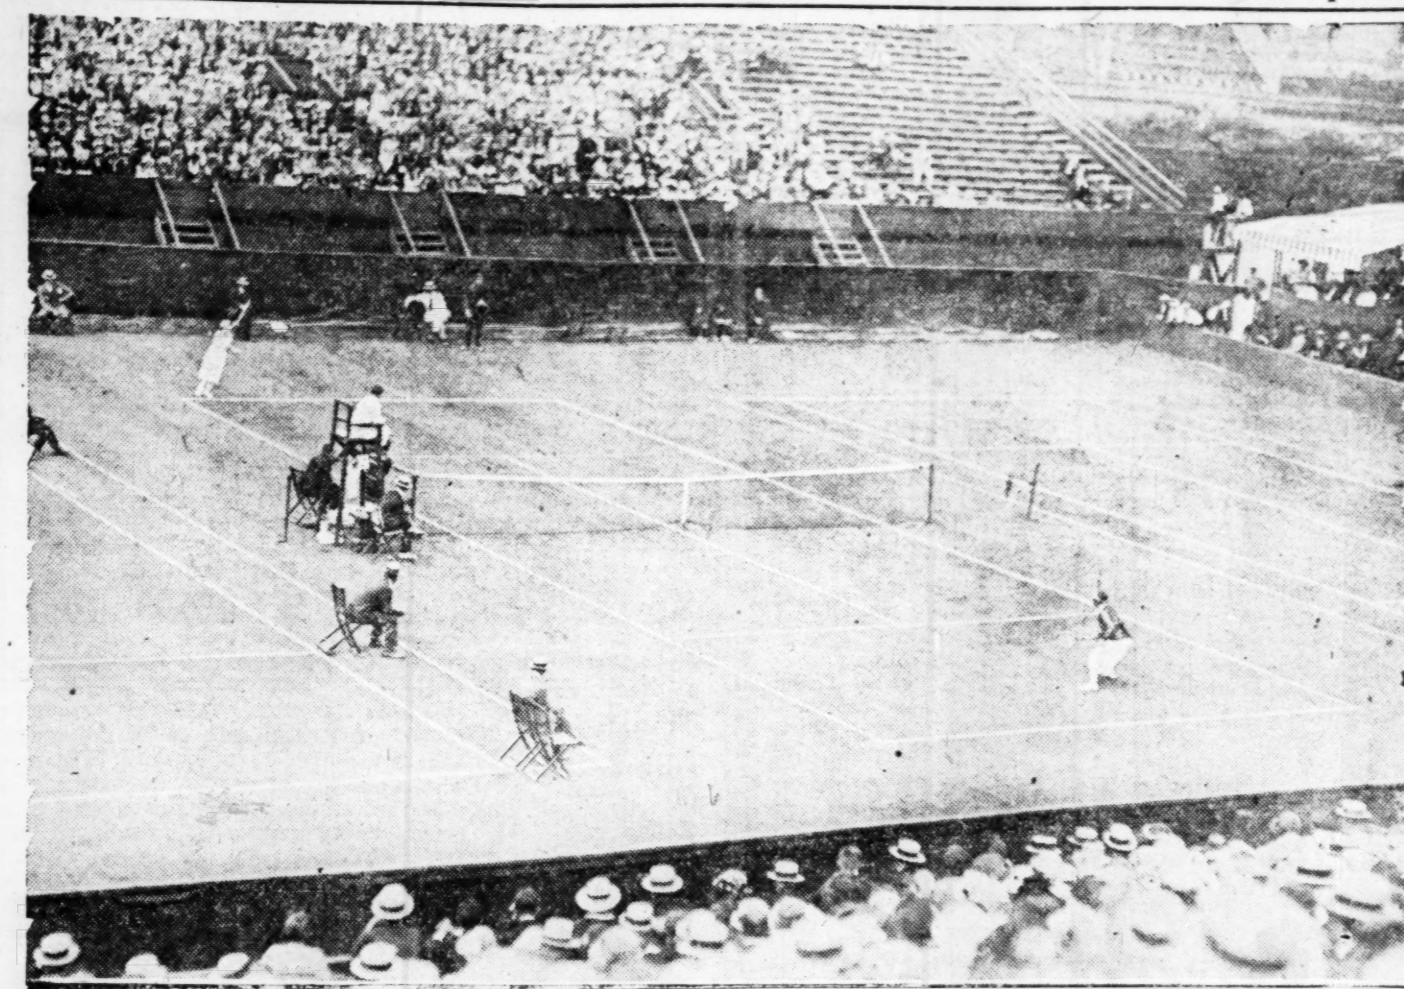

Garner Replies for Democrats.
Representative Garner of Texas, ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, opening the Democratic fight, replied at some length to Fordney's statements about Federal railroad operation. Asserting that Democratic and Republican Congresses had voted $2,600,000,000 to the railroads, he declared that the end was not yet.

You are called upon," he said, "addressing the Republicans, to vote $500,000,000 more which the President recommended the other day. Why do your leaders want you to vote on this proposition before Congress takes a recess? They dare not let you go home and meet your constituency on the proposition of giving the railroads $500,000,000 more."

Turning to the tax bill, Garner said he believed and hoped his party would say that the law put on the statute books should provide that those most able to pay should pay. He added that the Republican proposal was for a lifting of the tax burden from the classes and placing it on the masses.

Urging repeal of all of the minor taxes, the Texas member said he would propose as a peace-time policy the obtaining of all Government revenue from five sources—inheritance taxes, individual income and corporation taxes, tobacco taxes, customs receipts and postoffice and miscellaneous receipts.

NO CHARGES OF BUILDING TRUST IN KANSAS CITY

Barrett Says Dealers Maintain 'Open Price Plan,' but He Has Received No Complaints.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 17.—Attorney-General Barrett today announced that although four associations of building material dealers in Kansas City maintain modifications of what is known as the "open price plan," no complaint is before him indicating that any of that number had violated the state antitrust laws.

If any charges of price fixing are made to him against those organizations, however, proceedings will be instituted, he said.

Barrett discusses at some length in a statement on the Kansas City building material situation, the "open price plan," reminding that this business is not an offense in itself, but lends itself to price fixing and like deviations from the beaten path of Missouri business as outlined by statute.

When the outlines of that path are violated, Barrett points out, the "open price plan" then becomes wrong. His statement follows:

"This department has completed its examination of the 2349 pages of testimony taken at the Kansas City building trade wage conference. The evidence shows that in several branches of building materials there exist associations which maintain a modification of what is known as the 'open price' plan. They are the Missouri Valley Sand and Gravel Producers' Association, the Norcross Audit and Statistical Bureau maintained by the cement companies, the Kansas City Lumber Trade Exchange and the Manufacturers of Common Brick Association. These associations exchange information as to selling prices and maintain virtually the same plan of organization as that used in St. Louis, where the Attorney General has instituted suits against three associations comprising over 100 defendants.

"The form of the association, however, is only incidental, and if used in a proper manner does not necessitate State intervention. The 'open price' plan lends itself very readily to the fixing of prices and where the plan is accompanied by unfair prices and apparent restrictions of trade, prosecution is justified and will quickly follow. In other words, the State does not wish to unsettle business conditions or interfere with established business practices unless those practices are directly harmful to the public. Some months ago this department announced that price fixing must be brought to an end throughout Missouri. Since then, in Kansas City, building material prices have been substantially reduced; for instance, three successive cuts have been made in lumber prices. This may indicate that the building material dealers of Kansas City are already complying with the demands of this department. No complaints have been received from Kansas City, either from individuals or from any organized body.

"In St. Louis scores of complaints came from individuals as well as a formal complaint from the Building Trades Council, and a request for an investigation from the Chamber of Commerce. The newspapers made exhaustive investigations and furnished considerable information.

"The conclusion is, therefore, that while there exist in the hands of these associations the instrumentalities for the convenient violation of the anti-trust laws, no offense is committed until those instrumentalities are so used and that there are before us no communications containing complaints that the laws have been violated or prices maintained by agreement. If those charges are made, they will receive early investigation."

Falls Dead at Prayer Meeting.
R. P. Howard, 60 years old, of 2672 A E street, Granite City, fell dead at 8:45 o'clock last night in the Niedringhaus Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church in Granite City while he and other members of the congregation were singing the refrain of the hymn, "I've Anchored My Soul in the Haven of Rest."

Death apparently was due to heart disease and fulfilled a wish often expressed by Howard that he might end his days at prayer meeting. He was an ardent church worker. He is survived by his widow and three sons. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery, St. Louis.

MATERIAL DEALER IS BOUND AND ROBBED IN NOON HOUR

Philip Engel, Alone in Office at 12:30, Attacked by Three Men Who Took $51.

Philip Engel, 55 years old, of 4423 Holly avenue, vice president of the Echo Fuel and Material Co., Hall and North Market streets, was knocked down, bound hands and feet and robbed of $51 by three men who entered his office in the company at 12:30 p. m. today.

Engel was alone when the men entered and asked about the prices of Mount Olive coal. As he turned to consult a price list, one of the men hit him on the head with his fist, knocking him down. The others held him on the floor while the first man snatched a piece of slender rope from a desk and tied Engel's hands and feet.

The robbers fled after taking the money from Engel's pocket and made no attempt to open the company's safe. About 15 minutes later Jacob Hines, a negro, of 1712 Bidle street, called at the office to purchase coal. He released Engel and notified the police.

Volcano Vesuvius More Active.

NAPLES, Aug. 18.—Increased activity has been shown for several days by the volcano Vesuvius. Enormous columns of smoke arising from the crater have a very impressive appearance, especially when seen at night by the light of the full moon.

MAN FOUND DEAD MAY HAVE BEEN HIT BY TRAIN

Body, With Head Crushed, Was in Woods Near Frisco Railroad Tracks.

The man, whose body was found in a clump of weeds 100 feet north of the Frisco Railroad tracks near Alcoe station, in the extreme southwestern portion of the city, yesterday afternoon, was killed by a train, in the belief of Dr. T. L. Carriere, autopsy physician for the Coroner, who made an autopsy today. The man has not been identified.

A fracture of the skull, Dr. Carriere said, was caused by a more powerful impact than by any weapon in human hands. He also found that there were engine oil stains on the body and scalp and cinder bruises on the legs. Three ribs were broken.

Lieut. Walton of the police homicide squad also said he believed the man was killed by a train and his clothing later removed by tramps.

Four boys playing on a vacant tract of ground near the Seullin Steel Co. plant found the body at 3:45 p. m. Weeds had been pulled up and piled over it and the face was covered with a copy of a Tuesday newspaper. Later investigation by policemen showed that the right side of the head had been crushed.

The only garments on the body were a blue calico shirt and a white cotton undershirt. Near the feet, on the ground, were a pair of tan army shoes, size 6, and a pair of brown socks. Near the head was a brown soft hat with a black band. No weapon was found.

Garments Found in Box Car.
In a box car on the Frisco tracks, 200 feet south, policemen found a coat and vest and a pair of drawers reaching the undershirt. These garments were bloodstained, and the pockets of the coat had been turned inside out. No trousers were found.

The body was taken to the morgue, where it was said the man had been dead about 12 hours.

The man was about 60 years old, 5 feet, 6 inches tall, and weighed about 140 pounds. His hair, clipped short, was reddish brown, streaked with gray. He had no teeth. In one pocket of his coat, which had not been turned inside out, were a solid red handkerchief, a pipe, a broken comb and a spoon. There was a plain gold ring on his left hand. The lining of his coat had been slit as with a knife.

Between the place where the body was found and the box car was found a receipted plumber's bill, made out to John Meyers for work on a restaurant at 106 Old Glory street. This is the Old Glory Restaurant. It was said there that John Meyers owned the restaurant until a week ago, when he sold it to a new owner.

There were two lacerations of the scalp, which might have been caused by the body coming in contact with objects in the water. The homicide squad, after investigating, concluded that the man had killed himself.

ago, when he sold it to Eugene Murphy for $300.

Receipt Accounted For.
Meyers later was found. He said he threw the plumber's receipt away several days ago on the river front near Walnut street. He said the body at the morgue resembled a "hobo" whom he had seen several times on the Courthouse steps.

The boy who found the body were Meredith Shattuck, 14 years old, his brother, Eli, 12, of 6226 Famous avenue; James Gilbert, 13, of 4240 Famous avenue, and Edward Haney, 14, of 6226 Famous avenue.

CAN PAY EXTRADITION COSTS IN CASES OF ABANDONMENT

Applications of Prosecuting Attorney Oakley to City Treasurer Dunn for funds to pay extradition expenses in wife and child abandonment cases will be honored, under advice of City Counselor Caulfield, who gave the Treasurer an opinion today that if requisitions are accompanied by an estimate of probable cost they will meet the requirements of the law passed by the last Legislature authorizing the expenditure of not to exceed $2000 each year for expenses "incurred" in this connection.

Treasurer Dunn was uncertain whether such expenses could be considered "incurred" in advance. Counselor Caulfield holds that a reasonable interpretation will admit of honoring requisitions in advance, subject to adjustment afterward on the basis of the actual expense account. He also rules that the act of the Legislature obviates the necessity of a special appropriation by the Board of Aldermen.

Printer Employed by Open Shop Beaten and Kicked.
James Weston, 2008 A Texas avenue, was beaten and kicked by three men in the alley in the rear of his home at 9:30 o'clock last night. When his wife went to his aid the assailants told her that if she interfered she would get "the same dose." Weston was cut and bruised on the head and face.

Weston informed the police that he was employed as a printer by the R. P. Studley Printing Co., 311 Market street, one of the concerns which has adopted the open shop policy of abandonment, and that several strike pickets had threatened to beat him if he did not quit his job.

HIGHTOWER DENIES GUILT, HOLDS NO HOPE

Prisoner in Killing of Priest Says He Has Always Been Followed by Bad Luck.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Although he continued to assert innocence of any connection with the slaying of the Rev. Patrick C. Heslin in a statement last night to District Attorney Stuart at Redwood City, William A. Hightower said he had given up hope. "I'm through; I'm done. I've been unlucky all my life and my judgment has been worse than my luck. I suppose you will hang me," Hightower said. Stuart announced. Late yesterday Hightower said to James Coleman, his jailer: "I don't want to give up that least of all things, freedom, but I know it is all over for me. They have me bound by a chain of circumstantial evidence so strong that I will never be able to break it."

Belief that Hightower was the actual writer of a ransom note received Aug. 3 by Archbishop Hanna demanding $6000 for Father Heslin's release, was expressed by Chauncey McGovern, a handwriting expert. McGovern stated that several business firms had turned over to him letters which Hightower had written them and that he compared these with the ransom note.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury which today investigated the death of the Rev. Mr. Heslin made no mention of Hightower.

The verdict read: "We find that Father Patrick Heslin came to his death either by blows on the head, which fractured his skull, or by two gunshot wounds, either one of which was sufficient to cause death."

Seventy Years New

Three generations of American women have depended on Fruit of the Loom muslin.

The only difference between this standard muslin now and seventy years ago is that modern methods have made today's quality even a little better than of old.

But you have one advantage your grandmother did not have. She could buy Fruit of the Loom only by the yard or piece. You can also buy ready-made garments of Fruit of the Loom.

Fruit of the Loom Muslin

Leading manufacturers of articles that require durable cloth are now using Fruit of the Loom. You can get reliable brands of pajamas, nightgowns, sheets, pillow cases, and men's and boys' shirts, ready-made of Fruit of the Loom. We think too much of our label to permit its use except on well-made goods.

Whether you do your own sewing or buy ready-made, be sure to ask for Fruit of the Loom muslin—and look for the label.

FUNDS NEEDED BY HEALTH CAMP

Providence Association Seeks Contributions to Aid Mothers and Children.

An appeal is being made by the Providence Association for contributions for the Summer Health Camp at Kimmewick, Mo., where undernourished and physically unfit mothers and little children receive fresh air treatment, with complete rest and an abundance of nourishing food and rich milk. The time is short, as the camp must close before school opens. Walter R. Tubbs, the financial secretary, in his appeal says that some unfortunate mothers and their little children may be disappointed in their desire to go to the Health Camp this summer unless contributions are promptly and generously made.

MAN CAUGHT ON ROPE FIRE ESCAPE CONFESSES ROBBERIES
New Suit and Dress He Had Bought for Woman With Stolen Money Seized by Police.
Frank Hafner, 21 years old, arrested by detectives after he tried to climb down a rope fire escape at the Panama Hotel, 904 Chestnut street, Monday night, confessed to the detectives last night that he had robbed Frank Matthews, 7 North Ninth street, proprietor of a fruit stand, of a purse containing $40 and Postoffice money orders for $32.50, while in the fruit stand last Saturday night. He also admitted, the police say, breaking into the home of Thomas Tate, 446 North Eighth street, East St. Louis, last week, stealing a phonograph, some records and clothing, all valued at $200, which he sold for $15 to a man on North Sixth street, where they were recovered.
Hafner confessed after the detectives had confronted him with Miss Ella Hill, 21, who lived at the Panama Hotel as Hafner's wife. She said that last Saturday night Hafner showed her a purse from which he took some money, throwing the purse from a third-story window of the hotel. Detectives found the purse on an adjoining roof. It contained the Postoffice money orders described by Matthews and was identified as the one stolen from him.
The girl said Hafner had bought her

BEST STAFF THE ARMY EVER HAD PREDICTED

Weeks and Pershing Say New System Will Make Creation of War Machine Easier.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Reorganization of the army general staff to conform with that set up at American expeditionary headquarters in France will give the United States "the best staff the army ever had," in the opinion of Secretary Weeks and Gen. Pershing. The great advantage of the new system, they both pointed out yesterday when orders effecting the reorganization were issued, would be the facility with which it could be merged into a war machine without the necessity for changes either in the War Department or in the field.

"Hitherto the War Department general staff has been constituted as a single indivisible unit," Gen. Pershing said, "and the principle has never been recorded that in event of war one portion of the control must take the field prepared to assist the commanding General, while another portion must remain in the War Department to prepare to conduct the equally important operations connected with the mobilization of men and material."

"In the past the War Department general staff was so absorbed in routine peace-time administration that its military head had no time for deliberate preparation for military operations."

"This new organization contemplates that the chief of staff will be charged with the larger problems connected with the organization and training of the army and that portion of his staff will be charged with the preparations of plans for actual field operation, and upon the outbreak of war, will expand and take the field as the general staff at general headquarters."

"It further contemplates that another portion of the War Department general staff, under the deputy chief of staff, now known as the executive assistant, will be charged with the preparation of plans for mobilization of men and material in time of war, and with the routine business of the War Department in peace and war. It therefore, permits the chief of staff upon the outbreak of hostilities to take the field with a headquarters consisting of a trained personnel which has prepared the plans of the campaign while his principal assistant, the deputy chief of staff in time of peace, will become the chief of the War Department general staff."

Another order issued by the Secretary yesterday designated Major-General James G. Harbord executive assistant to Gen. Pershing, to be deputy chief of staff.

INVENTOR LOSES SUIT FOR $19,000,000

Duluth Ship Builder Charged Ore Concern Infringing on His Patent Ore Washer.

By the Associated Press. DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 18.—Alexander McDougall, Duluth inventor and shipbuilder, has lost his suit to recover royalties amounting to more than $19,000,000 from the Oliver Iron Mining Co. on his claim that the corporation's engineers were guilty of infringement on his patent ore washer.

Federal Judge Wilbur Booth, in a decision filed here yesterday, absolves the defendant from liability on the ground that no device can be held to infringe a combination claim such as the plaintiff possessed, unless it employs all the elements of such a claim.

Charges brought forth by Capt. McDougall at the trial here last fall that John C. Greenway, engineer, and other officials of the Oliver had availed themselves of a business visit to study his model only in order that they might copy it, were held to be immaterial in Judge Booth's decision.

Admits Killing Policeman. By the Associated Press. DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 18.—Owen Nash confessed to police authorities here last night that he murdered Thomas Hughes, a policeman, in Pana, Ill., last December.

GENIUS

Lady Morgan, in her book on France, glorified a dinner prepared by the great Caren.

And said that many epicureans required less genius than one such dinner.

If, as has been claimed, genius is only an infinite capacity for taking pains, Then the vegetable dinner served at CHILDS are the products of genius.

For each vegetable garden a natural flavor and all combined to make a balanced meal.

IF IT COMES FROM Moll's IT'S THE BEST

Below is an item which appeared in the Washington Post. This, we believe, is well worth reading and considering at this time.

The amount of Canned Fruits and Vegetables packed this season will be the smallest in many years, and the condition warrants buying now, as we believe higher prices will prevail in the near future.

Larger stocks and better assortments also can be placed before the purchaser at this time than may be possible later on.

The item reads as follows:

After an extensive tour of eight States, studying crop conditions, Granville Hunt, former chief of the Canned Goods Division of the Federal Food Administration, believes that now is the time for all thrifty and wise housewives to lay in their winter supply of these commodities; that America is liable to suffer a dearth of canned goods, and that with the augmented demand and the limited supply, prices will naturally rise to higher levels.

"The corn packers of Iowa, declared Mr. Hunt, are packing only twenty per cent of the normal crop. In Wisconsin, where it usually takes from four to six weeks to pack the entire crop of peas, the work was done this year in ten days. This was due to the restricted acreage and the drought. New York packers are preparing to send out only sixty per cent of their normal shipping. So it goes. In Michigan and the upper tiers of counties in Ohio, where fruits and berries are packed in great numbers, the frost nipped the crop, with the result that one can go for mile after mile without seeing trees in blossom. In one of the largest of that section I saw only one cherry tree in bloom, and that one of a late variety.

"Minnesota will pack only forty-two and a half per cent of its crop this year. Ohio's crop of peas and tomatoes will be approximately forty-five per cent of what it was last year. If present weather conditions do not reduce it to lower levels, the tomato crop of Hartford County, Md., will be only about five per cent; that is, five per cent available for packing. Over the entire eastern shore the pack will not be more than twenty-five or thirty per cent. The only answer, as I see it, is for the thrifty housewife to fill her pantry with such commodities as she needs to carry her family through the winter for prices for these goods may be as high before the snow falls as they were during the war period."—Washington Post.

ence for the Philippines.
The Moros do not want to mix with the Filipinos.

The Moros want Mandanao separated from the remainder of the Philippines.

The Moros wish to be annexed as a territory of the United States.

The Moros want American officials in order to avoid trouble.

Directly contrary views were expressed by Filipino speakers at the same meeting, which was held in the plaza. Attorney Erquiaga, who made the principal speech for the Filipinos, said that independence was desired as soon as possible, but the Filipinos would not attempt to say when a stable Government would be established.

Gen. Wood, in a speech, complimented the people of the Philippines on the progress made in co-operation with the Americans, but said that one pressing need was for more American teachers. He said a common language is essential for good Government.

Murderer Lives at Home.
Inspection of San Ramon Penal Colony, penitentiary for the Island of Mindanao, located 15 miles from here, by the Wood-Forbes mission, revealed that Jose Baluyot, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of the Governor of Batang Province four years ago, had served but one hour in prison at San Ramon since brought from Manila six months ago.

Baluyot had been living in his own house with his family two miles from the prison, and had two trusted servants as his servants. Baluyot served three years in Bilibid prison, near Manila, and then through political influence obtained transfer to the San Ramon penitentiary.

Admissions were made by prison officials to the Wood-Forbes mission that the first time Baluyot served in San Ramon prison was one hour before arrival of the Wood-Forbes mission at the prison.

The Wood-Forbes mission is investigating the influences that provided his freedom.

Moro Has Seven Wives.
Gen. Wood and W. Forbes have visited Datu Piang, the richest and one of the most influential Moros in the province. Datu Piang owns thousands of acres of land and hundreds of cattle and horses.

Datu Piang told the mission that he has seven wives in his harem and 21 living children. He estimated that his children who have died number 60, and explained his system of pensioning off his wives when they become old.

Gen. Wood and Forbes had a long talk with Piang, who complained that the public schools were all-ing his children from the Mohammedan religion. He was assured by the mission, however, that there was no cause for apprehension, as religion would not be taught in the public schools.

THE HUB

The Hub Furniture Company

Will Open in Its New Location

Washington at Seventh

Monday, August 22, 1921

Washington and Seventh is the acknowledged center of retail shopping. The establishment of a well-known and successful business at this central and convenient point is an event of far-reaching importance. The Hub was the first retail store on Washington avenue.

That The Hub was able to take advantage of the opportunity is a source of pardonable pride, and it gives me pleasure to assure the public that every effort will be made to merit its patronage through quality and variety of merchandise, reasonableness of price and thoughtfulness of service.

Entirely new stock purchased at the manufacturers' extremely low prices for the Fall, savings in freight by carlot purchases and a close margin of profit enables the new store to mark all its merchandise at figures that cannot be disregarded in the purchase of Furniture, Rugs, Carpets, Linoleums, Pianos, Players, and Phonographs.

The Opening Day will be signaled by a new idea in souvenirs, the details of which will be published in the Sunday advertisement.

You are cordially invited to plan your Monday so you can be present at the Formal Opening.

President

WAYNE WHEELER AT BEER BILL CONFERENCE

Reed Makes Objection to Presence Yesterday—Sterling's Motion Passed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The presence of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, at a meeting of the conference on the anti-beer bill, was characterized in the Senate today by Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, in an "unwarranted and unmitigated insolence."

After more than two hours of debate Senator Sterling's motion to send the beer bill to conference and to insist upon retention of the Senate amendments was adopted without a record vote.

Senator Reed read a newspaper item saying Wheeler had been closeted with the conferees and asked Senator Sterling, in charge of the measure, if it were true. The latter declined to answer, saying the question was "impertinent."

"I will state, however," Senator Sterling added, "that Wayne B. Wheeler was not closeted with the conferees. He came in for a few moments after we had concluded our work yesterday. Wheeler had nothing to do with any vote or action taken by us."

"Lobbying Gone Mad."
Senator Reed insisted it was pertinent to ask if men urging or opposing certain legislation were admitted to a secret conference, which was not open to members of the Senate or the House.

"The admission of a paid lobbyist, if he was admitted," Senator Reed declared, "to interfere with the deliberations of the two houses in an effort to compromise on an important measure, was an unwarranted and unmitigated insolence on the part of the man who did it. It was unfair to Congress.

"If Wayne B. Wheeler, representing the Anti-Saloon League, was there, then why not the man representing the saloon league, if one existed? I charge that it is an exhibition of lobbying gone mad."

Animals Identical With Those Shown by Fossils to Have Lived
3,000,000 Years Ago Discovered
Primitive Rodents Found in Wilds of Venezuela Represent Oldest Form of Mammals
Now in Existence.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—For 3,000,000 years one of the few survivors of the fossil animals has lived in fastnesses of what is now South America. Nine years ago it was discovered by an exploring expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History. The museum has just published its first scientific report on its find.
Speaking today of his discovery, Dr. Wilfred H. Osborn of the Field Museum named some of its features: "Through all these ages this animal has continued reproducing itself without important change. It is one of the most notable examples of the 'simple life.'"
All the other animals of its group have utterly vanished or been turned to stone hundreds of thousands of years.
It dates back to the period when the warm blooded animals were just beginning to evolve from the cold-blooded reptiles. It is one of the oldest living animals.
It is a "mirror of the past," with a practical value difficult to estimate.
A little animal, it looks like a sharp-nosed rat. It is only about six inches long. But its size has helped to preserve it. It has small eyes, rounded ears, a slender tail and soft brown hair.
Caeolestes is its name—modern representative of an ancient group of predatory animals.
Discovered in 1912.
Dr. Osborn made his discovery in Venezuela in 1912. He secured his specimens in the heart of a dense forest of the mountains there. Access to the spot was gained by laboriously cutting narrow trails for long distances through the heavy undergrowth.
Since then Dr. Osborn has made an intensive study of the animal, and it is this which the Field Museum has just published, in a book entitled "A Monographic Review of the American Marsupial, Caeolestes."
"This little animal is quite unlike any other now living in the world," Dr. Osborn said, "although it does not resemble closely any species now living, it is very intimately related to animals which flourished far back in geologic time when the foundations were being laid for the evolution of the higher animals of the present day. All the others of the group to which it belongs became extinct ages ago and Caeolestes alone has survived to the present."
"We know this because its bones and teeth are essentially the same as those of the extinct animals. If the bones are the same, it is probable that other parts also are similar. Therefore Caeolestes is a prize to the student, for it enables him to learn more about the ancient fossils than is shown by their bones, which yesterday in a fight between Germans and regular Polish troops near the frontier villages of Sternitz and Kostelitz, in Upper Silesia.

The Germans drove the Poles across the frontier.
RUINS OF TEMPLE UNEARTHED AT SIKYON, ON GULF OF CORINTH Foundation and Pillars, Indicate Structure Was Built by Dorians.
By the Associated Press.
ATHENS, Aug. 18.—Ruins of a great temple have been unearthed at Sikyon, a city on the southern shore of the Gulf of Corinth, which in the fourth century, before the Christian era, was one of the principal cities of Greece. The ruins, which the temple was built by the Dorians, who captured the town from the Aegean Ionians and held it for several centuries.
Experts who have visited the temple have said that the temple was sacred to the worship of Artemis, sister of Apollo and Goddess of the Chase, in the ancient Greek mythology.
PLANS FOR BARRACKS HOSPITAL
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Representative Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis was informed today by W. C. White, chairman of the board selecting sites for ex-service men's hospitals, that all data pertaining to the proposed hospital at Jefferson Barracks would be assembled within the next two weeks and submitted to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, with a favorable recommendation.
Dr. White explained that the board had not acted sooner because of the desire of Secretary Mellon that the selection of sites should be postponed until after the enactment of the Sweet bill consolidating soldier relief agencies into a veterans' bureau. Now that this bill has been signed by the President, the committee will proceed to submit its recommendations.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Musicians in five downtown motion picture theaters here went on strike today. The men were called out by Harold Kelly, president of the local musicians' union, after a disagreement with the owners of the theaters over the length of time they were to play.
The cause of the split is said to be all over the country-wide disagreement between theater owners and musicians.
Considerable censure has been uttered in circles unfriendly to Hyde of the consolidation affecting these departments. However, were held up by referendum which rendered appropriations to the consolidated departments dead letters.
More than seven months, or more than one-fourth of the biennium covered by the appropriations, has passed.
Yet Hyde has released the appropriations of only one of the separate departments referred to, that of Grain and Warehouse Commissioner, which office now is held by T. J. Hedrick, a Hyde appointee who with the aid of the Kansas City police seized the office after Hyde had removed James T. Bradshaw, Democratic, in a proceeding which Bradshaw described as farcical.
He charged gaily with friends who filled his cabin with flowers, and declined to talk about world problems with reporters. "I would not even discuss the Ten Commandments to-day," he told them.
CAMP FUNSTON AUCTION SALE
Eight Hundred Buildings Sold in One Day.
JUNCTION CITY, KAN., Aug. 18.—The second day of the sale at auction of the buildings and equipment at Camp Funston resulted in the disposal of about 800 buildings. The total sales of two days brought in about $300,000. Today, articles from the warehouse, including blankets and cooking equipment, will be sold. The sale will close tomorrow.
Small buyers were in evidence yesterday. Many of them were farmers and small town merchants who purchased small buildings for barns and homes.

MORE LITIGATION INVOLVING STATE JOBS THREATENING

Suits to Force Release of Appropriations Likely to Augment Other Action Against Hyde Administration.

OFFICES AFFECTED BY CONSOLIDATION BILLS

Beverage and Labor Commissioners May Be Forced Into Court—Contests of Two Other Jobs Pending.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 18.—The unprecedented litigation involving the present State administration, with three State offices contested in the courts by rival appointees, apparently soon is to be augmented by other suits involving two other offices and possibly a State board. Suits are pending over these offices: State Grain and Warehouse Commissioner, receiving $4500 a year and having about 120 subordinate appointments; Game and Fish Commissioner, receiving $3500 a year and having about 38 appointments; Food and Drug Commissioner, receiving $3500 a year and having about 18 appointments.
Prospects are excellent that two others, those of Beverage Inspector and Labor Commissioner, will be forced into court in a short time to obtain a release of their appropriations.
All of these offices, those now contested and the other two were involved in Gov. Hyde's consolidation bills, passed by the regular session of the Legislature. To meet all exigencies, two sets of appropriation bills were passed, one to the consolidated departments and another to the separate departments. Gov. Hyde, before signing either set, obtained waivers from the heads of the separate departments on 75 per cent of the money carried by the separate departments, thus leaving the fourth available. This procedure was designed to prevent the expenditure of the remainder, should the consolidations go into effect. Hyde then signed both sets of appropriations.

Consolidations Held Up.
The consolidations affecting these departments, however, were held up by referendum which rendered appropriations to the consolidated departments dead letters.
More than seven months, or more than one-fourth of the biennium covered by the appropriations, has passed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—Musicians in five downtown motion picture theaters here went on strike today. The men were called out by Harold Kelly, president of the local musicians' union, after a disagreement with the owners of the theaters over the length of time they were to play.
The cause of the split is said to be all over the country-wide disagreement between theater owners and musicians.
Considerable censure has been uttered in circles unfriendly to Hyde of the consolidation affecting these departments. However, were held up by referendum which rendered appropriations to the consolidated departments dead letters.
More than seven months, or more than one-fourth of the biennium covered by the appropriations, has passed.
Yet Hyde has released the appropriations of only one of the separate departments referred to, that of Grain and Warehouse Commissioner, which office now is held by T. J. Hedrick, a Hyde appointee who with the aid of the Kansas City police seized the office after Hyde had removed James T. Bradshaw, Democratic, in a proceeding which Bradshaw described as farcical.
He charged gaily with friends who filled his cabin with flowers, and declined to talk about world problems with reporters. "I would not even discuss the Ten Commandments to-day," he told them.

PEACE BASIS WITH U. S. ACCEPTABLE

Chancellor Discussing Draft of Agreement, in Conversations With Dresel, With Political Leaders.

MEMORANDUM FROM WASHINGTON SECRET

Complete Secrecy Maintained at Special Request of American Government, It Is Declared.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Chancellor Wirth, Foreign Minister Rosen and Dr. Haniel von Halhausen, under-secretary of the Foreign Office, conferred yesterday with representatives of the coalition party with regard to the forthcoming peace treaty between the United States and Germany.
The Chancellor followed the established custom in consulting parliamentary leaders on important legislation by confining the deliberations to representatives of the clerical, Democratic and majority Socialist parties, which make up the present Coalition Ministry.
During the next few days he will call in the opposition leaders and inform them that an agreement has been drafted on the strength of informal conversations between Dr. Rosen and Ellis Loring, United States Commissioner in Berlin, which is believed to be acceptable to the United States Government as a basis for the enactment of a final and formal treaty of peace.
Little serious opposition is expected by the Chancellor when the treaty is taken up for ratification by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Reichstag.
None of the participants in yesterday's conference would indicate the nature of a memorandum submitted by the Washington Government through Commissioner Dresel to the Foreign Minister. None was any indication of the nature of the proceedings given out. In answer to inquiries it was asserted that complete secrecy was maintained at the request of the American Government.
Officials of the American mission were steadfast in their refusal to discuss the progress of the peace negotiations, which are now believed to have reached a final stage.
Several well-known financial and economic experts took part in the consultation in an advisory capacity. The members of the Board of Frank A. Vanderlip and Paul M. Warburg, New York financiers, and the further fact that they have been in communication with Dr. Walter Rathenau, Minister of Reconstruction, and other Government officials, has prompted a rumor that the American bankers also have been in touch with Chancellor Wirth in connection with the peace negotiations. The Hamburg banker, and brother of the New York capitalist, was one of the experts in attendance at yesterday's conference.
Wirth submitted to the Government leaders is said to take complete cognizance of the provisions enumerated in the Porter-Knox peace resolution, although it is assumed that the questions of indemnities, reparations, penalties and other financial and economic features of the treaty have not yet been actively discussed in the course of the pourparlers between representatives of the two Governments.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Negroes meeting under the auspices of the American Unity Welfare League have adopted a resolution, here calling upon Mayor William Hale Thompson and Gov. Len Small to bar the recently organized Ku Klux Klan from Chicago. The protest claims that the Ku Klux Klan is attempting to drive negroes to the southern states.
A clause inserted in a number of appropriation bills, apparently with the advice and approval of the administration, which forbids Hackmann to issue warrants for the money appropriated until the specific sum requested has been released by the Governor.
This is classified as a direct effort to shut around the constitutional provision, which requires the Governor to sign or veto appropriations item by item unamended, within 10 days if he get the bill before the Legislature adjourns and within 30 days after adjournment in other cases. The release clause, if upheld in the courts would enable him to prolong his veto power over appropriations for two years and would give him unprecedented power over the heads of departments and institutions.

DAIRY COMMISSIONER FOR ST. LOUIS IS PROPOSED IN DRAFT OF NEW ORDINANCE

Measure Submitted by Department of Agriculture, at Request of Board of Aldermen, Is Thought to Cover Pure Milk Field.

The Department of Agriculture, in its report on the milk survey made in St. Louis at the request of the Board of Aldermen, submits a draft of an ordinance which the report, made public today, says should, with such regulations as may be made by the city authorities from time to time, "properly cover the subject."
The text of the proposed ordinance is as follows, the blank spaces being left for filling in at the decision of the board:
"Be it ordained by the City of St. Louis as follows: That for the purpose and within the meaning of this ordinance, (a) 'milk' is the lactical secretion obtained from the complete milking of cows; (b) 'skimmed milk' is milk from which substantially all of the milk fat has been removed; (c) 'sterilized milk' is milk produced and handled in conformity with the methods and standards for the production and distribution of certified milk, adopted by the Medical Association of Medical Milk Commissioners May 1, 1912, and amendments thereto, in effect at the time of production, and certified to by a milk commission constituted in compliance therewith; (d) grade 'A' pasteurized milk is milk produced from healthy cows, as determined by the tuberculin test and physical examination within not exceeding one year previously by a qualified veterinarian, from dairies that score not less than 80 on the dairy farm score card in current use at the time by the United States Department of Agriculture, which milk shall not, at any time previous to pasteurization, contain more than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter and after pasteurization shall not contain more than 25,000 nonpathogenic bacteria per cubic centimeter; (e) grade 'B' pasteurized cows, as determined by physical examination within not exceeding one year previously by a qualified veterinarian, from dairies that score not less than 50 on the dairy farm score card in current use at the time of the United States Department of Agriculture, which milk shall not, at any time previous to pasteurization, contain more than 1,000,000 nonpathogenic bacteria per cubic centimeter and after pasteurization shall not contain more than 100,000 nonpathogenic bacteria per cubic centimeter; (f) 'pasteurized milk' is milk which has been heated to, and for at least 30 minutes held at, a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit which either have not been subjected to the mechanical process of homogenization or emulsification as the case may be; (g) 'unsterilized' containers are containers which either have not been subjected to moist heat at a temperature as high as 205 degrees F. for two minutes or longer, or do not comply with such alternative requirements, as the case demands, and includes corporations, partnerships, societies or associations; (h) 'milk depot' is a place where milk and milk products exclusively are handled, stored or dispensed.
When construing and enforcing the provisions of this ordinance the act, omission or failure of any officer, agent or other person acting for or employed by any individual or by any corporation, partnership, society or association, within the scope of his employment or office, shall in every case be deemed to be the act, omission or failure of such individual, corporation, partnership, society or association as well as that of such officer, agent or other person.
Prohibitions on Selling.
Section.—That no person shall sell or deliver for consumption as milk or cream or have in his possession with intent to sell or deliver for consumption as milk, cream or ice cream, either—been pasteurized, or made from pasteurized milk or which is not labeled "Skimmed milk"; or

(d) Milk or cream containing, or which has been exposed to, any disease-producing bacteria; or
(e) Milk or cream, the container of which is labeled or branded so as to mislead or deceive the purchaser; or
(f) Milk or cream produced from diseased cows, or from cows during the period of 15 days preceding parturition or within such time thereafter as the milk is abnormal, or from cows which have been fed unclean food or have had access to contaminated water; or
(g) Milk or cream which falls below the requirements of grade B, as defined herein, or milk or cream which has been produced, stored, handled or transported in any unclean or unsanitary manner; or

(e) Milk or cream as "Pasteurized" milk or cream which has passed through any apparatus that has not been approved by the health officer of St. Louis.

Section.—Any person making such application for a permit shall file a sworn statement on a printed form provided by the Board of Public Service for that purpose.
Section.—There shall be no charge for such permit, but in accepting the same the applicant agrees to allow his premises to be visited by an official designated by the health officer of St. Louis, and to furnish free of charge such samples of milk or cream as the dairy and milk inspectors may take for analysis.
Section.—The holder of a permit issued under the provisions of this ordinance shall notify the health officer in writing of any change in the name and address of the person and persons from whom he obtains his milk, cream or ice cream supply.
All permits must be renewed during the first two weeks in January of each year to be valid.
Section.—That the health officer of St. Louis is authorized to make such regulations, from time to time as are necessary for the efficient execution of the provision of this ordinance, and to recommend permits to sell and deliver milk or cream in St. Louis. The Board of Health, after affording the permittee an opportunity for a hearing, may suspend or revoke any permit issued by it under this ordinance, whenever it shall determine that the permittee has violated any of the provisions of this ordinance or of the regulations made hereunder, and without affording such opportunity may suspend such permit temporarily whenever it deems necessary.
Section.—That the Health Officer of St. Louis, or his duly authorized agents, shall, at all reasonable times, have access to any dairy or any other place where milk or cream is produced for sale; to any wagon, truck, train, car, warehouse, or station in which milk or cream for sale is being transported or is

DISARMAMENT MUST BE GENERAL, LODGE DECLARES

Chairman Gives Senate a Glimpse of Views He Will Press as American Delegate to Conference.

REFERS TO DANGER IN REDUCING ARMY

Senator Says Country Has Gone as Far as It Can Without Menacing National Safety.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The question of open or secret sessions at the disarmament conference started a Senate debate yesterday in which Democrats criticized some of the steps taken by the administration and Chairman Lodge of the Foreign Relations Committee, who has been selected as one of the American delegates, gave his colleagues some glimpses of the attitude he intends to adopt at the conference.
The outburst was short-lived and failed to develop any general expression of Senate opinion on the subject of public or closed sessions. Further debate on the question was assured, however, by presentation for future consideration of a measure which would instruct the American delegates to insist that the conference sit with open doors.
No Expression From Lodge.
Senator Lodge did not express his views with regard to publicity, but he did assert that in the negotiations over disarmament itself he would hold to the principle that the only solution was a "general disarmament." He declared no one would work more earnestly than he, but that he would hold to an unshaken conviction that to insure success there must be "general reductions" all along the line.
Later in the day the Foreign Relations chairman, speaking on a good roads bill, asserted it was far economy to save money for roads by taking it away from the army and navy, whose reduction, he asserted, had hindered the country's progress. "We are already," without specific mention of the disarmament proposal, he reaffirmed his belief that this country could not now make further curtailments in its military and naval establishments without menacing national security.
President Visited by Women.
While the Senate debate was in progress, President Harding listened to a plea of a group of women political leaders that he appoint a woman on the American delegation to the conference, and told them he was confident a way would be found to utilize woman's influence and intuitions to aid in the success of the negotiations. The President's words were variously interpreted by members of the group, but it was said he refrained from a specific statement as to whether a woman would sit in the conference.
Those who took the petition to the White House were acting for the National League of Women Voters, whose president, Mrs. Maud Wood Park, headed the group and presented the petition to the subject adopted by the league.

Bottomley Says If Government Can't Deal With Matter Men of Stewards Staff Are Needed.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 18.—The declaration that Holland should be called upon to surrender the former German Emperor was made in the House of Commons today by Horatio Bottomley, Independent.
Bottomley said that if the demand should be refused and the British Government found itself unable to deal with the matter effectively, the Government should make way for "men of sterner stuff."
The Solicitor-General, Sir Ernest Pollock, declared that the punishment imposed by the Court at Leipzig on convicted German officers must be judged by German standards. He said it should be remembered that the Leipzig trials were the first in the history of the world in which a vanquished country had been forced to try its own nationals charged with war guilt.

Packer Regulation Bill Signed.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The bill providing for Federal regulation of the meat packing industry has been signed by President Harding. It was announced at the White House yesterday. Under the law the Secretary of Agriculture is given broad powers of control and supervision of the industry.

Mrs. Gertrude B. Organ Accused of Burning Salem Monitor Plant Last January.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SALEM, Mo., Aug. 13.—Mrs. Gertrude B. Organ, widow of Perry Organ and daughter-in-law of the late Col. J. E. Organ, for many years a political leader and member of the Legislature, was arrested yesterday at Cuba on a warrant charging arson. She was brought here and gave bond.
The charge grows out of the destruction by fire of the plant of the Salem Monitor in January. Mrs. Organ conducted the paper after the death of her husband. The plant was insured for $4500. The fire was discovered at 1 a. m. There are said to have been evidences of incendiaryism, including a five-gallon can of gasoline which had been stolen from a garage at Cuba.
Mrs. Organ is a daughter of Richard Counts, a retired farmer. She refuses to make a statement. The Monitor has suspended publication.

The Post-Dispatch WANTS to work for you. Mr. Employer, in setting together a sales organization that will win.

SAYS NEW LAW FAVORS BUSSES AND JITNEYS

Attorney Declares They May Return to Street Car Routes in Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 15.—Motor buses and jitneys which the City Council several months ago legislated off the streets here upon which street cars are operated, may return to their old routes under the new State motor vehicle law passed at the recent special session of the Legislature and approved by Gov. Hyde, according to A. L. Cooper, attorney for the jitney men's association.

The announcement by Cooper was made yesterday when he learned definitely that the Governor had signed the bill. It was a complete surprise to all those interested in the transportation controversy here.

According to the attorney the new bill takes the regulation of motor transportation out of the hands of city governments in Missouri. The bill, Cooper said, does not mention the words "jitney" or "motor bus."

The new law repeals chapter 71 of the statutes relating to motor vehicles, which interpreted by Judge Graves of the Supreme Court, did not deprive the cities of the right to regulate motor traffic," Cooper explained. "The new law, however, expressly provides that the power of the cities to regulate motor traffic is restricted to those enumerated in the act."

The act does not refer to jitney or motor bus transportation.

When the new law goes into effect, Nov. 1, jitneys will be free to return to their old routes, Cooper said.

Cooper, who is county commissioner, admitted he visited Jefferson City several times during consideration of the bill.

Norway May Extend Sea Limit.
CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Aug. 14.—In consequence of the tremendous smuggling of liquors into Norway, the Government will submit to the storting in September, a proposal to extend the three mile sea limit to six miles or 10 miles, and also to confiscate all craft seized while engaged in smuggling.

FOREIGN TRADE FELL THREE BILLION IN YEAR

Decrease in Exports Ascribed to Lower Prices Caused by After-War Depression.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The decrease of more than $3,000,000,000 in the value of the country's foreign trade during the past fiscal year is ascribed by the Commerce Department today to the world-wide trade depression coming as an aftermath of the war.

Lower prices rather than diminished quantities are to a great extent responsible for the decrease in exports, the department asserts in a statement reviewing the year's foreign commerce.

The total value of the foreign trade of the country dropped from $13,347,000,000 in the fiscal year 1920 to $10,171,000,000 in 1921, a decrease of 23.8 per cent, the statement showed. Exports dropped from $5,238,000,000 in 1920 to $3,654,000,000 in 1921, a loss of $1,584,000,000 or 30.2 per cent, while imports amounted to $6,517,000,000 in 1921, a decrease of $1,593,000,000, or 19.6 per cent.

Aside from lower prices, other causes contributed to the small foreign trade totals, the department declares, asserting that the advantage enjoyed by this country during and after the war of being the only country able to supply the needs of the others has passed.

Crops now being raised on the battlefields of the devastated regions of Europe, the department says, the pressing needs of manufacturing industries abroad for raw materials has been filled and the United States must now compete in the world markets in prices and terms with the other countries.

"The foreign exchange situation," the department said, "also had an adverse effect on American exports last year. With exchange rates of foreign currencies depreciated to a point which made prices in dollars prohibitive, with declining imports, the impossibility of settling the balances already due the United States in gold, the difficulty of arranging further credit facilities, with cancellation of orders, rejection of goods already shipped and collection drafts dishonored, it was impossible for exports to continue at the rate of $500,000,000 or $600,000,000 a month, to which they had grown during the war."

Two-thirds of the year's decline in imports, the department asserts, was in raw material, as American factories, running only part time, or entirely shutdown, stopped buying foreign hides, wool, cotton, silk, rubber and other materials.

ROBBER WHO KILLED SELF WAS CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 18.—A robber who shot and killed himself Tuesday when cornered by detectives following an attempt to rob a jewelry store, was identified yesterday as Robert Cope, 24, of Leslie, Miss., a conscientious objector during the war and a paroled prisoner from Camp Grant.

Reference to Department of Justice records here showed him to have been paroled at the close of the war after serving part of sentence of 50 years, later reduced to 25 years, imposed by court-martial, according to police.

It was also stated at Central Police Headquarters that he is believed to have been one of a number of I. W. W. sympathizers picked up here during the war.

FIRST REGIMENT HAS FIGHT WITH STORM

Men Prevent Damage by Response to Call After Mess Tents Are Blown Down.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FIRST REGIMENT CAMP HYDE, SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 12.—During the severe electric and wind storm that swept the Fairgrounds Tuesday night the First Regiment was on the job. The fire call was sounded and responded to. Several fires had been caused. No material damage was done and there were no casualties. Most of the mess shelters were blown down. Col. Thornton ordered all guy ropes to be cut and tents loosened, thus saving considerable property.

The regiment was paraded and reviewed by Gen. W. C. Ramm. Col. Thornton was host to Col. W. L. Mahrey, E. N. Stoyton and Thomas Loy at the First Regiment headquarters.

Regimental orders have been issued for an inspection by the medical detachment of the condition of the teeth of every enlisted man. The men are enthusiastic and keen for the military instruction that is being given them and are the picture of health.

The officers of the three Sedalia batteries of artillery were the guests at supper of the officers of the First Regiment. A chorale club has been started in the Second Battalion. Lieu. Charles Hawe is chorale leader of Company E. Several men in the Third Battalion, under command of Maj. Burr S. Goodman, have erected a wireless outfit and are receiving and sending messages.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Now that the new tariff bill is being framed and its accompanying high rates severely criticised throughout the country, I would like to point out that in the case of dyes and coal-tar products in general it is very important that they be protected to a high degree. At the present time an embargo is protecting the dye makers and it is the only reason they are not crushed out by foreign producers. The public is not, perhaps, informed of what happened in England relative to these products. The bars were let down, following the armistice, with the result that German products were imported in immense quantities and sold far below the cost of production in England. The situation was finally seen by the lawmakers with the result that now an embargo of 10 years' duration protects the British dye industry, although it will be months before the stock of foreign dyes are used up.

Why does the dye industry need protection? This can be answered best by quoting a letter from Gen. Pershing to the congressional committee, dated July 15, 1921. "With reference to the protection for the dye industry in this country, it can be stated that the coal-tar products, of which dyes are the most important at present in peace, is the base of practically all of our high explosives and most of our war gases. Our shortage of chemical plants in general, and dye plants in particular, prior to the World War, made it difficult for us to obtain a supply of high explosives and gases until we had been in the war for several months."

In particular, the chemical industry interests St. Louis, as everyone knows. We are due to become a great steel center and, accompanying this will be large quantities of coal tar from the by-product coke ovens. Success to one will also help the other.

CHEMIST.

An Unfair Permit.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On Magnolia avenue between Thurman and Klemm there is a lot 100 by about 300. Some individuals bought this lot and ran a street called a court through the center of it from north to south.

On either side of the court they are building five so-called cottages where there should be one house, thereby greatly damaging the surrounding, especially the adjoining property.

It is unfair that a permit should be granted by the city to put up buildings that will depreciate real estate in a desirable and beautiful location.

TAXPAYER.

Consider the Mail Man.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

BOLISH the cause and the desired results will take place.

In one of the daily papers during the past few days there was an article wherein the writer remarked about the speed of mail trucks.

Let me inform the writer that all mail trucks, with the exception of a very few, which deliver parcels, are required to run on schedule time. Mail from a great number of boxes and stations must be collected within a certain time, and let it be remembered there is no time to spare.

If the general public, and especially those that drive machines, would give the mail trucks the right of way, they would not be delayed and then could run at slow speed. But when these mail trucks get 10, 15 or 20 minutes late, due to other machines blocking them, cutting them off and hogging the street, it is then that the driver of the mail truck has to speed up to get on time and meet the dispatch trucks on schedule.

With the exception of the fire department, ambulances and other emergency vehicles, most any driver could wait a minute to let the mail trucks have the right of way, thereby not delaying them. If the public would be a bit reasonable and consider the position of the driver of the mail trucks, fast driving would be stopped.

A POSTAL EMPLOYEE.

Boost.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I further reference to an eight-hour a week President, why should Mr. Harding be criticised by some narrow-minded person simply because he desires a vacation now and then. Let's cut out the knocking and give the new man a boost.

A WOMAN VOTER.

What Are We to Do?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE read with much interest several letters published in your paper on the child and house question, and from personal experience I know they are letters that only scratch the surface of an evil that will have to end or we so-called Americans will in 50 years or less have a nation of aged men and women. I am an American and the proud possessor of a 6-year-old American girl and in defense of her I am writing this letter.

What are we to do with the children that we have or that may come to us?

R. L. B.

IRELAND'S OPPORTUNITY.

The Dail Eireann may sustain Mr. De Valera in rejecting the British Government's offer, but such action would not necessarily terminate the negotiations. Back of Dail Eireann are the people of Ireland, to whom the question may be referred for final decision. In addition to that recourse there is the friendly advance to Ulster in De Valera's latest speech, which may fairly be construed, we think, as a disposition on the Republican leader's part to provide reasons for continuing the discussion.

Any reason for continuing the discussion should be welcome both in London and Dublin. Neither party to the parley can afford to declare the effort a failure until the very last possibility has been exhausted. The gravity of the issue from every viewpoint compels the infinite patience, the utmost determination not to give up while a shred of hope remains.

In the open debate De Valera possibly has the better of Lloyd George. The Irish leader is correct in saying that the offer made Ireland is not a dominion status, since the right to secede from the empire, which other dominions theoretically possess, is not included in the terms. Still, the reservation, "with strategic safeguards," which qualifies the proposal probably covers that very point. But the issue is not a debate between Lloyd George and De Valera. It is a question of a people's destiny. For De Valera and those associated with him in leadership the question is how they can best serve the people of Ireland. In answering it they ought to take seriously into account a sentence in Gen. Smuts' moving letter to De Valera which says that "any question that you (Ireland) and the British Government may have will be for the imperial conference to decide." In that sentence the stature of the Dominion of Ireland is impressively defined. No longer will differences have to be threshed out with Westminster. Dublin Castle as a symbol is razed as completely as the Bastille. Immediately upon acceptance Ireland has a higher court to which she may appeal—the court of the British Empire.

The imperial conference is a new institution, as was shown in the proceedings of its meeting a short time ago when the colonies asserted that hereafter they must be informed as to England's foreign policy. More striking still was Canada's declaration that hereafter any question arising between her and the United States must be settled by Canada without reference to London.

All this is evolution. As a matter of fact, the British Empire, in the historical and accepted sense of the expression, has passed. It is a British League of Nations physically powerful enough to compel England to keep faith with Ireland if force should be necessary.

"The old order changeth." It is Ireland's opportunity to take her place in the new order.

TO SPEAK OR NOT TO SPEAK.

To defend the reign of First Consul Miller it is not sufficient that his minions enforce the law or overenforce it by the terrorization of prisoners and the arrest of orderly citizens and public officials engaged in a friendly week-end poker game. It is necessary to carry the gospel, by resending any expression to the contrary, that the King can do no wrong. If the people do not think as desired about the head of the Police Department it must not be for lack of any forensic efforts on the part of the police.

Such is the precedent set up by President Miller of the Police Board in condemning to 90 hours' extra work a patrolman who failed in some way to neutralize the cursing of his lord and master by an irate woman. It behooves our liegions immediately to devise, by reason or magic, some ready formula whereby it may be determined when speech and when silence is the more perilous in the kingdom of Tibernus—the Victor crowned with bay.

PETER OF SERBIA.

For his part in the dynastic history of his country the world was cold to Peter of Serbia. For the suspicion which rested upon him in connection with the murder of his predecessor, Alexander, of the house of Obrenovitch, King Peter was regarded as a relic of another age, the age of the Medici and of Richard III.

But the way of family feuds is as inflexible as human passion. The victim is to be pitied only in that he failed to anticipate the other in making the fatal thrust or firing the fatal shot. The victor is to be blamed only because his rival failed to do first what was done to him.

It was in his hopelessly unequal struggle against Austria and his defiance of almost certain annihilation in preference to surrender that the world took the part of Peter. If loyalty to country and people could be a sufficient atonement of sins then the murder der record of the house of Karageorgievitch must have been forgotten.

Today it is as the leader of one of the most outraged little nations of the war and the nation most intimately connected with the war's inception that the world thinks of the dead King Peter. The restoration of his nation and its expansion in a new confederation of Slavic peoples relieved of the perennial menace of Austria on one side and of the Moslem empire on the other is one of the mighty epics of modern history.

Lack of fruit to go with the cheap sugar has the preservers in a jam.

FORDNEY'S HARANGUE.

Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means Committee gave a shocking exhibition of bad taste during the debate on the revenue bill when he digressed into violent personal abuse of former President Wilson. The harangue, of course, was in violation of parliamentary elements. With that it may be dismissed.

One assertion of Mr. Fordney's, however, may not be dismissed—his statement that he voted for Government operation of the railroads "in order to put the President in the hole," and his chuckling gratification that "we did put him in the hole." Subsequently Mr. Fordney retracted this admission of treachery that verges close to treason, but how are we to believe the retraction? Can any confidence be placed in the word of a man who confesses to such baseness? And what of the others involved in Fordney's gloating "we"? They may speak for themselves in disavowal, but Fordney needs a corroborating witness.

Meantime the news from Washington tells of Mr. Wilson's rapid recovery since relieved of the duties of office. Except for Fordney's vulgar tirade the news, we should have supposed, had been received gladly everywhere. But we must except official Washington, so far as Fordney typifies it, not only from the ordinary decencies, but from the sportsmanship we like to consider a national characteristic.

Meantime, too, it is satisfying to know that the missiles of the Fordneys cannot reach their target. They never have. "Only pinchbeck yields to the acids of satire. Gold defies them." In office or out of office, Wilson goes on, serenely unimpaired of the yelping pack.

That Illinois man who has been present at 25 legal executions might be called a hanger-on.

MR. FRANCIS' EXCEPTIONS.

The Post-Dispatch is puzzled by the letter, printed yesterday, in which David R. Francis takes exception to our intently considered comment on his book, "Russia From the American Embassy." The editorial questioned the wisdom of Mr. Francis' plan for solving the Russian problem, which was to overthrow the Lenin Government with an international army. "I never recommended the overthrow of the Bolshevik Soviet Government by force after the armistice was signed," the letter asserts. Again, "Your editorial says that Kolchak failed when he was assisted by the British and French."

Those exceptions are not well taken. The book tells of a dinner at Buckingham Palace a few days after Christmas, 1918, when, in replying to King George's question as to what we ought to do about Russia, Ambassador Francis said he thought the allies should overturn the Bolshevik Government. King George agreed with him. President Wilson did not. This was some six weeks after the armistice had been signed.

The following February, while returning to the United States as the guest of President Wilson on the Washington, this incident occurred, as related in the book:

I outlined my recommendation about Russia to him (President Wilson). He replied that sending soldiers to Russia after the armistice had been signed would be very unpopular in America. I ventured to differ with him. I expressed the opinion that many of the 2,000,000 soldiers he had in Europe were disappointed that the armistice had been signed before they could engage in a battle. I said: "You could get 50,000 volunteers out of the 2,000,000 American soldiers who would be glad to go to Russia to protect a representative of their Government in that country."

So much for that. In his second exception Mr. Francis is also mistaken. Our editorial did not say that "Kolchak failed when he was assisted by the British and the French." If Mr. Francis will give himself the pleasure of reading his own book and perform the dreary task of again reading our editorial his grievances, we are sure, will disappear.

Now that it is constitutionally possible, how about having a woman Judge for the Domestic Relations Court?

MISSOURI.

MISSOURI of the golden West
When Hope went streaming through thy gates
Beyond the Rockies' gleaming crest
Out where the golden ocean waits—
Dear mother of a score of states,
Sharing their childhood's joys and fears—
Old home and after all the best—
We hail thee at a hundred years!

Thy story is a tale to sing
Of things that may not be again—
The caravan far westering,
There faded thy Missouri strain.
Founding the new West, where thy peers
And children join with us to bring These greetings at a hundred years!

Let us hope that no one who disagreed with Mr. Wilson as to entering the war with the allies and emerging from it with the League of Nations will begrudge him that return to health and strength which enabled him on yesterday to appear for the first time at his law offices in Washington. Mr. Wilson missed by a long shot the state of public opinion in the United States, but no one else ever paid us so great a compliment as the man who believed we would lay aside the passions of war and embrace a plan for peace. We could not do that, and our failure to do it came mighty near costing Mr. Wilson his life. Other men will dream great dreams for us, and they, too, shall scarcely see us rise to realization of those dreams; but to have with us still in some part of his former strength the man who dreamed this dream for us and survived its failure is a privilege. We wish him clients, but no such client as all of us together proved when we answered his challenge to our better side with more hate and fear than any country had mustered since history began.

The editor of Our Dumb Animals thinks our strictures upon what that journal had to say of the circus were a little caustic. He adds: "If you were familiar with the cruelty of training animals for public performance you would not seriously make such a comment." Great Caesar! We hope we have not seemed to be in opposition to people who want to prevent cruelty to animals. What we were thinking of was a circus world, and our response is that if the editor of Our Dumb Animals had ever lived in such a world he would not take us so seriously.

What is an easier prey of the worst element than a big city? New York is about to have a municipal election, and the New Republic says there isn't any chance to beat Tammany and Hearst. Does the New Republic know of a big city any place where that same thing isn't true?

Naming Senator Lodge as one of our representatives in the disarmament conference is not going to disarm anyone's suspicion that we are not taking the conference very seriously ourselves.

TRIBUTE TO A NEGRO LEADER.

From the New York World.

AN editorial in the Augusta Chronicle calls attention, by its tribute to Dr. Charles T. Walker, the "Black Spurgeon" of the South, to a possible solution of the race problem in this country which has apparently not occurred to Marcus Garvey, Provisional President of Africa. It would well to talk, as Mr. Garvey does, of Africa for the Africans, but in sober reality the Africans as everybody knows, couldn't be persuaded to go back to Africa. The negroes are in the United States to stay and the white and black elements must sooner or later learn to live amicably side by side.

Charles Walker threw all his talent as a leader among his people in the direction of a working partnership between negro and white man and in his influence the Chronicle attributes the remarkable record of Augusta in avoiding racial clashes. It was his theory that social equality for his race was unnecessary, and he set out to teach his congregations how to create their own centers of culture and establish their own social life. As pastor of the Mount Olivet Baptist Church in New York City and as pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist Church in Augusta, his great gift, his attractive personality and his confidence in his race put immense power into his hands. He used it to dispel hatreds and to bring the negro race to a realization that its destiny lay in its own hands. The Tabernacle building and the vocational school which functions within it are only faint evidence of the practical value of his teaching. That he was no less successful with white men than with black is easily discovered from the Chronicle editorial. He will be missed from Augusta, but he has played so potent a part in making the city that he will not soon be forgotten.

THREE-CENT POSTAGE.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

INTERNAL tax revision now before the House at Washington involves the provision of new taxes, as well as the abolition of excessive burdens now borne. No administrative economy possible will offset the loss of the excess profit taxes and the reduction of the exorbitant surtaxes which are now driving capital out of business into tax-exempt refuges, and at the same time cover the reduction in the general income and corporation tax receipts which is inevitable. Revision must, to a considerable degree, mean the substitution of more equitable taxes for some of the unreasonable taxes imposed during the emergency of war. All new taxes are objectionable. Therefore substitutes which are proposed are to be judged only in comparison with the taxes which are to be removed. It is not a question whether a new tax is or is not desirable. It is less undesirable than the tax which it may relieve. The suggestion of a return to 3-cent postage and the imposition of a stamp tax on bank checks is to be considered in this light. There is no clamor or even suggestion for either. But the extra cent on letter postage will produce $100,000,000 in revenue a year, the stamp on bank checks as much, if not more. The burden will be widely distributed. It will not be back-breaking for any individual or corporation. These taxes will not be a permanent part of the revenue system, but merely emergency measures, which can be abandoned readily.

Intelligent Reading

A CORRESPONDENT asks me to write an article on intelligent reading.

We do not, we suppose, expect to list the literature of the day. This has been done by publishers who have devoted their lives to the task.

The results of their labors are found in any good library. If you are not a reader, you can ask her.

For most people intelligent reading consists partly of reading prose and poetry, partly in works concerning their particular trade or profession.

All good books are interesting and worth reading, but if you do not read them all, you are not a reader.

Read good English novels—of them. Read the English American poets that you like, perhaps 20 American novels.

Read everything you can get of that concerns your own business. With that for a foundation the magazines—and above all, newspapers.

Read the newspapers every day. They contain the history of the day to the most interesting times—your own.

You cannot talk intelligently, think intelligently or act intelligently if you do not know the world you—and of this the newspapers are the daily chronicle.

In them you will find the results of the daily investigations in all parts of the world, where interesting things are happening and tell you about them.

They are trained for that. They do not write sermons or treatises. They tell you what happened, and, if it is possible, why.

The well read man is always a newspaper reader. He talks intelligently and thinks with intelligence. He uses the newspapers to extend his observation to all parts of the world and he greatly profits from it. He finds them.

You would braid your hair in three strands, either in a circular shape, until you have the required size for in a kitchen table, bath tub, or even needed. Appetizing Ways for Using Apples
By Emilie Hoffman.

Apple Pancake.

SEPARATE four eggs and beat whites stiff. Beat yolks and mix with a generous tablespoonful of flour, a pinch of salt and one cup of milk. When thoroughly blended fold in beaten whites and one or two apples that have been peeled and chopped or sliced very finely. Have one tablespoonful of butter, or lard, pour in the pancake batter and bake over moderate heat until done. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon and serve with cream.

Fried Apples.

This makes a good accompaniment to meat and is easily prepared. Wash apples and cut into quarters, or eighths according to size. Sprinkle sugar into the hot fat in fryingpan and fry apples until nicely done.

Apple Roll.

Beat three eggs and one cup sugar until creamy. Add three tablespoonfuls of water and one cup flour stirred together with a quarter teaspoonful salt and one teaspoonful baking powder. Mix well, then spread the mixture on greased paper in a shallow pan. Bake in hot oven, two soft and brown but not overdone. Sprinkle the sheet with apple sauce, roll up and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Cut into thick slices and serve with plain cream or cream sauce.

Apple-Rice Pudding.

Put sliced apples in bottom of pudding dish and cover with plain rice or rice custard and bake.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S SCRAPBOOK

STRING beans that are not fresh picked will be quite tender when cooked if covered with cold water and allowed to remain a while before cooking.

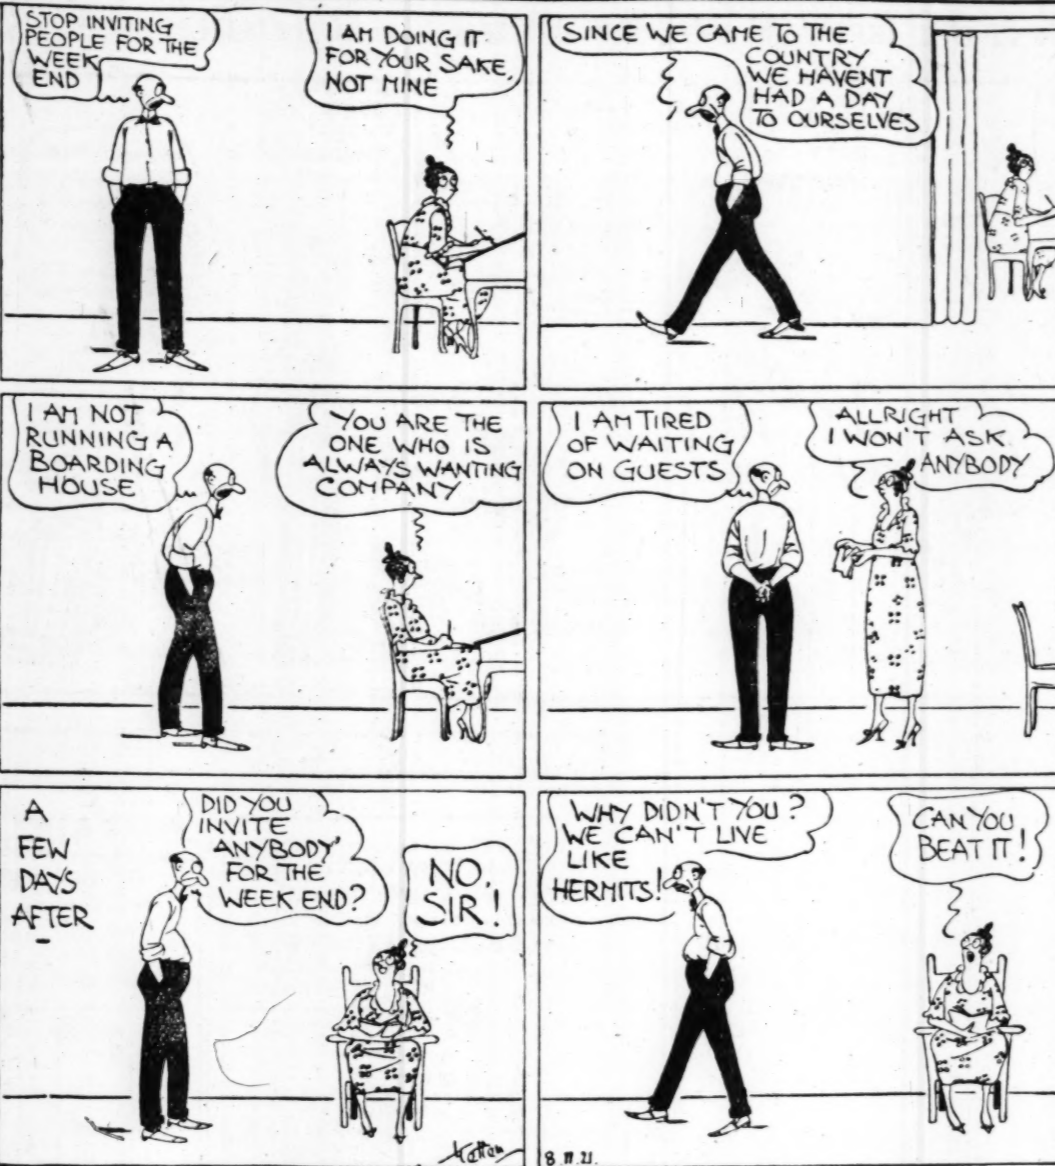

Sprinkle a little flour into the pan before frying eggs to prevent the buttering and you will not be annoyed by burns on hands and faces when hot fat.

Instead of allowing moths to feed on skins, trousers, coats, etc., hang them in strips about one and a half inches wide, turn edges to meet and braid in three strands just as you would braid your hair. Sew the braid together, either in oblong or circular shape, until you have a required size for in front of a kitchen table, bath tub or where needed. By making the last two or three braids a dark color you will have an effective border.

Do not wash the raisins you use for a pudding unless you thoroughly dry them before putting them in. They make the pudding heavy when it is rubbed between dry towels.

Before you go camping dip the matches in very hot paraffin. As soon as they are cool they are absolutely waterproof and you can be sure you will have matches that will light even in rainy weather.

A Short Story in Five Daily Installments.

(Copyright, 1921.)

FOURTH INSTALLMENT.

STEPHEN got to his feet. The reference to Amy was a jarring note, but outwardly he ignored it. In his inner consciousness, however, he was remotely pleased, as well as disturbed. "I've an appointment at half-past five. . . . This has been the most perfect afternoon I've spent in ages. And if matters do go the wrong way, I'll be gladder yet of that railing." He intended to smile down at her, but when he met her eyes, the smile stilled in his heart.

"So far, all you've done is to point out how many varieties of an idiot I am. Well, if I keep on being an idiot, and the worst occurs, are you just going to say, 'I told you so'—or are you still going to be kind to me then?"

Her eyes puzzled him. They were as direct as usual, but she seemed to be hiding behind them. "What would you suppose? I really don't look like a fair-weather friend, do I? I hate to have you suspect me, even in fun."

"I don't suspect you; I count on you. And I do fall—"

"There are times," she said, averted. "When I believe you'll do better for yourself if you fall, than if you don't."

He told Amy about this conversation, and he was shocked by Amy's reception of the confidence. She received his eulogies very coolly, and demanded, with indignant amusement, to know what was the attraction about Helen Raymond. Stephen couldn't tell a hundred per cent of the truth without giving Amy the idea that he was drawing a comparison; so that he tried to be diplomatic and succeeded only in being incoherent. Amy put a little grimace, and formed her own conclusion.

He sat next Helen at another dinner (and silently blessed his hostess), he sat out dances with her, he isolated her at a tea to which he had valuable appointments that day, but she laughed at him, and coaxed him, and insisted that he go; and then, to his vast perplexity, took him home early. For once, he would gladly have stayed, but it was something he couldn't very well express to Amy. He couldn't even make it logical to himself.

He was still buying up his nerves with stimulants, and altogether he had experienced half a dozen of those depressing brain-lapses, but he had reported no more of them to his physician. The prescription was obvious, and it was the one prescription he couldn't accept.

He arrived at a day when in self-respect he had to make a mild protest to Amy, and she took it nobly—and then staggered him.

"Of course, if you can't go, dear, if all you want is to stay home and rest, why, you don't mind my going alone, do you? When I couldn't do anything for you anyway?"

Stephen reconsidered, and set his jaw. "I'd rather go with you than have you go without me."

"But, darling, it isn't as bad as that! Lots of men let their wives do 'I don't care what other men do; I don't marry other men's wives.'"

"But, darling!"

Stephen waved his hand with finality. "It's settled, Amy. He had expected that she would offer to renounce the engagement, but she didn't."

"Don't you know," said Helen to him, "that no man can serve two masters? You must be fearfully vain, aren't you? You're trying to serve three."

which had grown recessive. "It's soon be over now," he said. "Some people haven't your insight, Helen. They think that unless a big husky like me is actually moaning with pain he must be all right. It's only another week, at the outside. And perhaps society is a safety-valve for me. If I didn't have to go out every night I might waver."

"Haven't you had an understanding with Mrs. Mead yet?"

Stephen flushed. "I've tried it. But when she trusts me so implicitly to take care of her, and keep her happy, and to be successful—I can't go back on trust like that until I'm made to. Would you if you were in my place?"

She longed to blurt out that it was selfishness on Amy's part, and not trust, but she managed to hold her tongue.

"I've tried so hard to help you," she said, sorrowfully.

"You've helped every minute of every day. You've given me courage."

"I've done all I can. You make me feel very incompetent, sometimes. But if ever you do need me—that's silly, but I want to say it—you know, don't you?"

He said that he did, and he promised, in the reverse of the traditional fashion, to let her know if ever he could use her services.

THIS was on Monday, and on Wednesday, at mid-afternoon, he telephoned to Amy from his office. In his mind there was a certain savage kind of retribution; Amy had always minimized his business worries, always scoffed at any hint of a forced reduction in their scale of living. She had refused to listen to forecasts of what might happen, and now she was bound to listen to the logic of what had actually happened. There was an instant of concentrated bitterness during which Stephen hoped that she would suffer; but the mere sound of her voice put an end to his savagery.

"Amy?"

"I wish you'd do something for me. I wish you'd stay home this afternoon."

"Oh, Stephen!" Her accent was pathetic. "Is it so awfully important, dear? I was just going out—it's a bridge party for the Red Cross, and I'm on the committee."

Stephen winced, and the lines deepened about his eyes. "Couldn't you contrive to stay home for once? I'd rather like to have you."

"Why, I—"

"No," he said, shortly. "I'm not ill. There was a sense of several seconds."

"You see, dear, when I'm on the committee, and you didn't tell me beforehand."

Stephen's shoulders drooped. "It's nothing that can't wait, I guess. Nothing'll change it before tonight. Go ahead to your bridge-party. A wave of acid humor swept over him. "I hope you win."

He couldn't very well blame Amy for her inability to read his desires at long range; he could more easily blame himself, because he hadn't been categorical.

There was nothing for him to do in the office, indeed, he no longer had any responsibilities there, and he had no privileges.

Listlessly, he put on his hat, and went out to the street. He had no purpose, no impetus; he had no sense of direction or distance, but when he came to himself he had reached a familiar corner. The remainder of his walk was voluntary.

As soon as Helen saw him, she exclaimed aloud. Tragedy was in his eyes, and in his bearing.

"Well, it's all over," said Stephen, and gave a harsh laugh. "I thought you'd want to know."

"She wasn't hiding behind her eyes today; instead, he could distinguish in them a degree of pity which made him waver."

"You've . . . failed?"

He gazed his lips. "The consolation fell through yesterday. I finished up this afternoon. It feels like a pardon. The suspense isn't there any more."

She came to him, her eyes brimming. "What do you know what you can do? Don't let me be a baby about it. That's all. Don't let me talk about it. It's over and done with. And you've been the only support I've had."

"What? What? What? What? It's a come-down, but I'm not worried about that. But Amy'll think I've been a bungler. She can't begin to understand. What's the matter with her? I tell you I've had before. Not a tenth. I don't care, but it means moving into a cheap house, and firing servants and staying out of society—Society!"

His laugh was rasping. "As though that were any sacrifice."

She made her voice as calming as she could.

"Please sit down, Stephen. Please, do."

He sat down, and stared fixedly at her.

"You've been mighty dear to me, Helen. I can't stay here any longer; I've got to go home. If I stay I'll make a fool of myself."

"Stephen! Am I as useless as that?"

"Useless?" His voice sank. "Helen, if I weren't married!"

"Sh-h-h! You mustn't talk like that. You mustn't."

"But it's true. If I weren't married, I'd have asked you long ago to—"

"Stephen, you mustn't!"

He lifted his heavy eyes. "Do you know it, then? Do you know how much I've cared?"

She had to answer him, and she gave him the truth. "I couldn't help knowing it, could I?"

"It isn't disloyalty to Amy. I'm crazy about her. I'm upset now on account of her. But if things had been different?"

"Yes, Stephen. Yes."

He stood up nervously. "I've got to go."

"Is Amy waiting for you? You shouldn't have come here first, Stephen."

"No. She isn't home. She's never home. She's playing bridge somewhere."

"You're going home to be alone?"

"Have to, I guess."

"Oh, you poor boy!"

It was the sharp note of sympathy which took away the final gram of his resistance. He made an heroic attempt to master his mood, but it was futile. His mouth began to quiver, and his hands to tremble.

"Helen! You don't care that much! Thank Heaven that somebody cared!" He stumbled toward her, and she was in his arms. She was crying, and he kissed her eyes. She was trying to speak to him, and he kissed her lips. His whole frame was shaking uncontrollably.

Modern Maid

JUST as some New Englanders "enjoy poor health," so there are women who enjoy matrimonial misery. They would not—paradoxical as it sounds—live happily with their husbands unless they lived unhappily.

Jealousy is emotional wood alcohol; it first blinds, then kills, love.

"What every woman knows," that nobody who wears trousers is happy unless he is making a noise with a hammer, his feet, or his tongue.

New definition of home (a man's): the place where one eats when there isn't anything else to do—which there never is!

"A moment's thought is passion's parting knell," sang Keats. If it were only as easy as all that to get rid of the whole bothering business!

When a woman tells you, with every appearance of earnestness, that she would trust her husband anywhere, you cannot help wondering which of the two is the fool.

After a man has told a woman a lie to spare her feelings, he simply cannot understand why she goes to work and ferrets out the truth in spite of him.

Love is the handicap some of us carry in the race for success.

WHEN baking shells for tarts or making patty cases in tins, press the paste down evenly all around up to the rim. Prick with a fork to prevent blistering, and fill with dry beans or rice to prevent shrinking of paste. Bake in hot oven. When baked remove beans or rice and save them for future use for same purpose. Brush the baked cases with stiff brush before filling.

Hot water will set egg stains. Therefore, if there are egg stains on the table linen soak in cold water, and the stain can easily be removed before article is laundered.

Never use hot suds to clean oil-cloth or linoleum. Use lukewarm water, and to clearly bring out the colors wipe with a cloth moistened in equal parts of cold water and milk.

The brown marks on china will disappear if you place the stained article in a saucepan with cold water and a lump of soda. Let it boil fifteen minutes, then rinse the china well.

Peter Goes for Help.

Just as you would freely lend Seek assistance from a friend.

—Peter Rabbit.

PETER RABBIT stared rather helplessly at Mr. Blacksnake coiled up under a tomato plant in Farmer Brown's garden. Peter knew that down in the earth just under Mr. Blacksnake was Old Mr. Toad, the very one for whom Mr. Blacksnake had been looking for his breakfast. Peter knew he was there, for he had watched him bury himself there.

It was funny. Old Mr. Toad didn't know that Mr. Blacksnake was just over him and Mr. Blacksnake had no idea that Old Mr. Toad was just under him. But Peter couldn't see anything funny in it. He was worried for that. He was afraid that Old Mr. Toad might move and so give himself away. Somehow he must get Mr. Blacksnake away from there.

But how was he to do it? He knew that Mr. Blacksnake had no fear of him. He couldn't frighten Mr. Blacksnake away. That was out of the question. He must get help. That was all there was to it; he must get help. But who would dare try to drive Mr. Blacksnake away? If only Farmer Brown's Boy would happen along. If only he would. Then all would be well.

"I'll run over to the Old Orchard," thought Peter. "Perhaps Sammy Jay will be there and I can get him to try to call Farmer Brown's Boy over here. He is the only one I can think of."

So Peter hopped over to the Old Orchard. Sammy Jay wasn't to be seen, nor was his harsh voice to be heard. Peter was disappointed, very much disappointed. He must have shown it in his face, for a sharp voice started him.

"Tut, tut, tut, tut, Peter Rabbit. What are you looking so mournful for on such a fine morning as this? Is the heat too much for you?" cried the sharp voice.

Peter didn't need to even look to know who was speaking. There was but one voice like that. It was Jenny Wren's.

"What would you do, Jenny Wren, if you should find Mr. Blacksnake over here in the Old Orchard?" asked Peter.

"What would I do? What would I do?" cried Jenny Wren. "I'd call Farmer Brown's Boy over here. He is the only one I can think of."

"Where is he?" demanded Jenny and Mr. Wren together.

"He's over in the garden of Farmer Brown's Boy," replied Peter. "If you want to see him I'll show you where he is."

"Wait a minute," cried Jenny Wren. "I'll get Scraper, the Kingbird, and away she flew."

Until the Doctor Comes

By Charlotte C. West, M. D.

POISONING FROM PTOMAINES AND LEUCOMAINES.

WERE ARE passing through a season in which all lower forms of life are unusually prolific. Insects hitherto unknown to us as well as the everyday, commonplace varieties abound in countless and devastating numbers.

Everyone knows that insects are disease carriers. Also that they contaminate food and cause rapid deterioration of material that presents every appearance of being sound and sweet. Such food contains the deadly alkaloids of ptomaine and leucomaines, substances which develop in perfectly wholesome foodstuffs as a result of bacterial invasion (carried by insects) whereby changes of a putrefactive nature are set up.

These alkaloids possess intensely toxic properties and are present before any recognizable changes can be observed in food. The poison is no living matter, as many suppose, but the result of microscopic living matter upon animal matter (flesh), when it is termed ptomaine, or upon dairy products, when it is called leucomaine.

The toxic substances that develop in sea foods are not destroyed by boiling. It is most unwise to partake of such dishes unless one is entirely satisfied that the food is absolutely fresh at the moment of preparation. There is no food more delicious than freshly caught sea food immediately cooked. It is more wholesome, too, than heavier meats at this season.

In France the sale of dead fish is prohibited, dealers showing their live wares in sea water.

Leucomaines are not so deadly as ptomaines, although the same precautions should be exercised in the use of dairy foods, which include ice cream. At the height of summer the combination of sea food, lobster, for instance, and ice cream or frozen puddings often brings on a serious attack of poisoning, perhaps because the intestinal tract is not "up" to digesting the food as rapidly as is necessary.

When ptomaine poisoning is of a virulent nature the symptoms come on with distressing rapidity, such as uncontrollable vomiting, griping pains, diarrhea and profound prostration, or the nervous system may be chiefly affected with symptoms of vertigo, dry mouth, subnormal temperature, collapse. Death may take place before assistance arrives, so lose no time.

Irrigation (washing out) of the entire intestinal tract is the first and immediate indication for treatment. Give mustard water, one teaspoonful of mustard in a cup of warm water to encourage vomiting, and high rectal enemata of salt water, one teaspoonful of salt to the pint of water—use several quarts. The temperature of the body must be sustained with hot-water bottles, and the action of the heart supported with a stimulant, one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a wine glass of water.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

WAITERS.
I like the life of great hotels.
I sit about them and admire
The bellhops, clerks and haughty swells,
Arrayed in elegant attire.
I like the imitation jade,
The brightly gilded elevators,
But I am terribly afraid
Of waiters.

They have a cold, unfriendly air;
They never say a word of greeting.
They don't approve the clothes I wear,
They do not like my mode of eating.
As languidly they come and go,
I feel their chill disapprobation,
And know that I am far below
Their station.

I've shaken Dempsey's hairy hand
Without a quail of trepidation;
I've disagreed with Pershing, and Told Harding how to run the nation.
I've had disputes with John McGraw;
But every time a waiter serves me,
A thrill of terror, mixed with awe, Uncovers me.

Although a waiter never yet
Has bitten, slugged, or even sassed me,
I never fail to get upset
As they gaze insolently past me.
And though they do not threaten me,
And never violence do they do me,
I feel somehow that they can see Right through me.
